IDENTIFIES SUSPECTS AS MEN WHO ROBBED TRAIN OF $40,000

Harry Melville, the Postal Clerk, Says Perry Is Man Who Stabbed Him When He Refused to Give Up Money.

$6,000 REWARD OFFERED FOR ARREST OF BANDITS

East Point Watchman Identifies Fields and Perry as Suspects He Arrested After Depot Safe Was Looted.

Harry B. Melville, the postal clerk on the Queen and Crescent southbound train No. 1, running from Cincinnati to New Orleans, which was robbed near Birmingham of $40,000 on the night of February 19, arrived in Atlanta Friday afternoon, and identified A. O. Perry, one of the three alleged yeggmen, who were arrested Monday morning at No. 89 Brookline street, by Sergeant George Bullard and Plain-Clothes Man Shaw, as the train bandit who stabbed him in the back with a knife when he refused to tell the gang of robbers where all the money in the mail car was hidden.

W. B. Gray, alias "Des Moines Billy," alias William Grant, and Rexford Fields, were partially identified as members of the gang of train robbers.

Along with six other white prisoners, the three suspects were lined up, and Melville, on entering the room, proceeded immediately toward Perry, and picked him out as the man who stabbed him. He then picked out Fields and Gray, but was not absolutely positive about identifying them.

Perry Becomes Nervous.

When Perry saw Melville enter the prison cell he became very nervous. It was noticed by all the officials present. Fields and Gray also showed signs of uneasiness when Melville began to approach them.

Tom Oliver, night watchman at the East Point yards of the Atlanta and West Point and the Central of Georgia railroads, identified Fields and Perry Thursday morning as the two men who mhe arrested as suspects about two months ago on the night when the safe in the East Point depot was blown. Oliver said he knew nothing of Gray. He stated that on that night he was beaten by Fields and Perry, after he had them handcuffed together, and overcome by them, when they took his revolver and handcuff key, and made good their escape.

Fields was identified Thursday morning by a Decatur street pawnbroker as the man who pawned with him the revolver that since has been identified as one of the two belonging to John Nolan, the train bandit convicted Tuesday afternoon in Marietta, for robbing the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis train at Vinings, Ga.

The three alleged yeggmen, who have been living at 89 Brookline, supposedly operating from there, have been under police surveillance for some time, information having been received here from the western states that they had moved here. They were arrested early Monday morning, following the safe-blowing at Griffin, Ga., Saturday night, when the Walker Bros.' safe was robbed of $805. Tuesday afternoon, while the officers were searching the premises of their residence they discovered buried underneath the house a complete set of yeggmen tools.

Since that date the United States postoffice inspectors, who have been working on the Birmingham robbery, have been trying to connect the men with the Queen and Crescent robbery.

Knew John Nolan.

The officers state that the suspects have admitted knowing John Nolan. W. James, who was one of the attorneys defending Nolan at his trial, was at police headquarters Friday afternoon and stated that it was his belief that Perry and not Nolan held up and robbed the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis train at Vinings on the night of January 16. He will ask the passengers of the train to identify Perry, he stated, and then ask for a new trial for Nolan, who was sentenced to twenty years for the robbery.

A reward of $6,000 was offered for the arrest of the gang who robbed the Queen and Crescent train, and if the suspects now held are convicted, Sergeant Bullard and his partner, Shaw, expect to claim the reward for their capture.

Melville told the story of the robbery, stating that the robbers had concealed themselves in the mail car, and suddenly covered him with pistols. While they were looting the car, he stated that he threw a $5,000 package of bills over into a mail pouch for concealment. The robbers suspected him of doing this, and demanded that he tell where he had thrown it. When he refused, Perry said, "Well, let's kill him," and ran a knife into his back, according to Melville. Melville states that one of the robbers, he thinks Gray, stated that he would not be a party to such a crime, and remonstrated with Perry, trying to keep him from knifing him.

Birmingham Wants Suspects.

Birmingham, Ala., March 20.—The Irondale train robber suspects, identified in Atlanta today, are expected to be brought to Birmingham for preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Watts. The case will go at once into the federal courts because the robbing of mails is involved. Sheriff W. K. McAdory, of this county, said tonight that no action would be taken in behalf of the state until the federal authorities had finished with the prisoners.

Runs Amuck and Shoots Three

Washington, March 20.—Herman Kabansky, a grocer, ran amuck with a revolver today, short three persons, one of whom may die, and was taken, wounded himself, after a pistol duel with a policeman. His wife, mother-in-law and brother-in-law fell before his fire, the wife seriously wounded. Family troubles were the cause, the police say.

CONTAGION SWEEPS NEGRO ORPHANAGE; MANY CHILDREN ILL

ALREADY THREE DEATHS HAVE OCCURRED THERE

Dyphtheria, Pneumonia, and Malnutrition the Cause — Conditions Prove Necessity of Greater Hospital.

Conditions bordering upon the unbelievable and at once emphatically emphasizing Atlanta's need for a hospital, equipped to take care of its growing population, were unearthed late Friday in the Carrie Steele Logan Home, a colored orphanage, at 901 Fair street.

Six colored babies lie in one ill-ventilated room in that structure, two of them mortally sick. Two doctors have disagreed as to the source of the illness which has swept through the home leaving a trace of whooping cough here and the clammy hand of double pneumonia there. Dr. H. R. Butler, well known colored physician, of 200 Auburn avenue, states that the children are suffering from dyphtheria. Dr. Hall, city physician, declares that the children are suffering from "a complication of diseases." Trained investigators say that dyphtheria, pneumonia and malnutrition have caused the epidemic of disease, which has in the past week caused the death of three of the orphans who have been kept at the home.

No Money From County.

A visit to the home late Friday afternoon disclosed the fact that the matron, Augusta L. Goodrum, a graduate of Fisk School for Negroes, has been conducting the place for the past several years. The city makes an allowance of $100 per month for maintenance. Up to the first of the present year the county also made an allowance for the support of the home, but this allowance has been cut off. The matron declared that since the first of the year she has received no salary. She stated that prior to that time she received $55 a month as salary and for incidentals.

The matron also outlined the food served the children, declaring that from the rather formidable menu there was very slight deviation the year round. The children are served two meals a day—breakfast and dinner at noon. The 6 o'clock meal consists of crackers.

TROOPS ARE MOVED IN READINESS FOR CRISIS IN ULSTER

Clash Between British Soldiers and Volunteer Forces, Aroused Over Home Rule, Is Feared.

LEADERS ON BOTH SIDES TRYING TO KEEP PEACE

"Whatever Happens, We Will See That Law and Order Are Observed," Says Attorney General.

London, March 20.—"War in Ulster" is the startling headline sensational London newspapers are displaying in the blackest type.

The government began to dispose of its regular troops in Ireland so they may be in a position to deal with any situation that arises. The army council, some time ago, considered the possibilities of home rule strife and instructed Lieutenant General Sir Arthur Henry Fitzroy Paget, who commands the Irish garrisons, to take necessary precautions to maintain order and safeguard property. A general redistribution of forces in Ireland, therefore, was begun today.

Two regiments were sent from the south to reinforce the Ulster garrisons while the troops in Ulster were moved to new stations in conformity with the custom that in the event of trouble soldiers will not have to encounter people with whom they had formed friendships. Some Irish recruits were sent from the Armagh recruiting station to England.

Leaders Urge Peace.

The possibilities of a collision between British soldiers and Ulster volunteers resulting from the superheated political feeling, are recognized, but leaders on both sides are trying to exert a pacific influence. John Redmond, nationalist leader in parliament, today telegraphed nationalists in Belfast an urgent appeal to abandon a parade arranged for Sunday in Londonderry, which, it is thought likely, would result in rioting. Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and members of the Ulster council invoked calmness on the part of the volunteers.

Four cabinet ministers spoke of the Ulster situation at different meetings tonight. John Burns, president of the local government board, in an address, said:

Will Carry Home Rule.

"Home rule is a question mainly for Ireland itself. Three-fourths of the people there have demanded it persistently for years, and we have no right to listen to the demand for more concessions or yield to clamor. We have no more desire to yield to lawless lawyers than to lawless laborers."

Thomas McKinnon Wood, secretary of state for Scotland, said: "We will carry home rule by agreement if we possibly can, but without it we must."

Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, in his speech, declared the government's proposals gave Ulster freedom from coercion for six years and that the scheme of Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in parliament, meant immediate coercion if a referendum went against Ulster.

Sir John Allebrook Simon, attorney general, said the government proposed to go steadily on, adding: "Whatever happens we will see that law and order are unflinchingly observed in Ulster."

The Ulster Volunteers.

In view of the partisan claims, regarding the number of men, the organization and equipment of the Ulster volunteers, statements by Colonel Dacourt, military correspondent of The London Times and H. W. Nevinson, a prominent liberal writer of The Nation, who have been touring Ulster, are important.

Colonel Dacourt says the 110,000 men

O'NEAL DEMANDS GRAND JURY PROBE

Lacy's Charge That Governor Received $27,500 of Convict Funds Branded as Absolute Falsehood.

Montgomery, Ala., March 20.—"An unqualified falsehood" was the term applied here tonight by Governor Emmet O'Neal, of Alabama, to a statement issued here today by Theophilus Lacy, former chief clerk of the state convict department, in which he alleged that he had given the governor $27,500, alleged to have been funds of the convict department. Lacy recently was convicted of embezzling state funds and sentenced to serve ten years in prison.

Lacy, in his statement, said that he had given the money to the governor in either May or June. Governor O'Neal, in his statement, said that he would "prosecute vigorously every newspaper in Alabama, or elsewhere, that indorsed this libelous and damnable vilification." He asserted that the statement of Lacy was made at the instance of political opponents.

Governor O'Neal tonight sent a letter to Judge Armistead Brown, demanding a grand jury investigation of the charge made by Lacy. He said that unless a complete investigation was made by an impartial body, he would take action to insure such an investigation, even if the legislature had to be called in session.

Dallas Is Coming to Shrine Convention

Dallas is coming to the Shrine convention—that is, all that part of Dallas entitled to do a good, old-fashioned Turkish salaam and wear a red fez. This much was assured Friday, when Dr. Harrison B. Cave, manager of the band of Hella Temple, Dallas; C. W. Davis, captain of the Hella Temple patrol, and C. F. Woods, also of Hella Temple, made arrangements in Atlanta for the visit of the Texans. They secured the ninth floor of the Piedmont for Shrine week. The visitors were shown the city by G. G. Dugas, formerly of Hella Temple, and C. W. Ferguson, of Yaarab patrol. The party was royally entertained Friday night by C. L. DuPuy, of Atlanta, formerly of Palestine, Texas.

TORREON INVESTED BY GENERAL VILLA AND 12,000 REBELS

Cannons Placed to Shell Federal Stronghold Sheltering 9,000 Troops Under General Refugio Velasco.

"CITY WILL BE MINE IN WEEK," SAYS VILLA

Constitutionalists, After March Across Desert, Occupy Suburbs of Torreon and Prepare to Shell City.

Constitutionalist Headquarters, Yermo, Durango, Mexico, March 20.—General Villa and his army of 12,000 rebels today invested the federal stronghold of Torreon.

The khaki-clad columns occupied the environs of the city without opposition, and today was spent in wheeling and dragging field pieces into place to shell the federal trenches, dug at every point where the federal commander, General Refugio Velasco, expects attack.

Velasco's army is estimated to number 9,000 men. South and southwest of this city his position is regarded as almost impregnable by reason of the mountains, through which only three passes run, and these have been rendered almost impassable by fortifications and barbed-wire entanglements. In other directions the city is reached through the desert and high hills.

Villa's progress has been slow, because it was necessary to repair railroad tracks and bridges. Early today, however, the road was open from Yermo, where the troops have been mobolizing, to Mapimi and Bermejillo, which are only a few miles north of Torreon, and virtually are suburbs of that city.

At these two cities, after suffering long hours in freight cars, where they were stuffed like figs in a box, and with little water, the troops detrained and, in the intense heat, formed in columns.

Army Crosses Desert.

There was little loss of time in plunging into the desert, some mounted and others on foot. Great clouds of fine desert dust marked their progress over hummocks of cacti-crowned sand, and through dry water courses. Great tank wagons laden with the water supply which has been Villa's greatest problem, rumbled in the trail, the wheels at times almost hub deep in the sand. When branches of the tough mesquite bush and soap weed were matted under the wheels, sturdy peons put hands to the spokes, there were streams of profanity addressed to mules in a language said to be in this respect the most adequate in the world, and the column would proceed.

The lips of the few foreigners in the army were cracked and swollen from the heat and alkali dust, but the Mexicans, trained to such conditions, covered their mouths with folds of their blankets and fared better. All eyes were bloodshot.

In this way, amid all the suffering which the harshest waste of arid land in Mexico can furnish, the outskirts of Torreon were reached.

Given No Opposition.

There was no opposition, and General Villa declares there had been none since he began to repair the railroad south of Jiminez. The federals contented themselves with strewing all possible obstruction except bullets in his way. There were occasional exchanges of shots between outposts, but nothing that assumed even the dignity of a skirmish.

General Villa was everywhere, for now that the eve of the battle is at hand, he is a fury of energy, now grabbing the halter of a refractory mule, now criticising the lashings of a pack saddle, or snapping orders at a lesser leader. He went from point to point in his private car, attached to a light engine, and wherever he alighted his horse, saddled and bridled, was instantly awaiting.

"Torreon will be mine in a week."

Woodrow Wilson Describes Just How It Feels to Be President of United States

Washington, March 20.—Woodrow Wilson unbosomed himself to members of the National Press Club of Washington today, telling them, in a frank, conversational way, how he felt as president of the United States, how difficult it was for him to imagine himself as the chief executive with the formal amenities of the position, and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office. It was an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson, the man, drawn by himself, on the occasion of the "house warming" at the Press club's new quarters. The president did not intend to have his remarks reported, but later, at the request of the club, the unusual speech was made public. It follows:

"I was just thinking of my sense of confusion of identity, sometimes, when I read article about myself. I never have read an article about myself in which I recognized myself, and I have come to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolutely good faith. I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the impressions I make—and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold and removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances, which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind, but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work.

Feels Like a Volcano.

"I am not aware of having any detachable apparatus inside of me. On the contrary, if I were to interpret myself, I would say that my constant embarrassment is to restrain the emotions that are inside of me. You may not believe it, but I sometimes feel like a far from extinct volcano, and if the lava does not seem to spill over it is because you are not high enough to see into the basin and see the caldron boil. Because, truly, gentlemen, in the position which I now occupy there is a sort, I do not know how else to express it than to say, passionate sense of being connected with my fellowmen in a peculiar relationship of responsibility. Not merely the responsibility of office, but God knows there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected.

"I have mixed, first and last, with all sorts and conditions of men—there are mighty few kinds of men that have to be described to me, and there are mighty few kinds of experiences that have to be described to me—and when I think of the number of men who are looking to me as the representative of a party, with the hope for all varieties of salvation from the things they are struggling in the midst of, it makes me tremble. It makes me tremble not only with a sense of my own inadequacy and weakness, but as if I were shaken by the very things that are shaking them; and if I seem circumspect, it is because I am so diligently trying not to make any colossal blunders. If you just calculated the number of blunders a fellow can make in twenty-four hours, if he is not careful and if he does not listen more than he talks, you would see something of the feeling that I have.

"I was amused the other day at a remark that Senator Newlands made. I had read him the trust message I was to deliver to congress some ten days before I delivered it, and I never stop 'doctoring' things of that kind until the day I have to deliver them.

HOLDS UP TRAIN, BUT LOSES NERVE

Dude Bandit Leaps From Train When Conductor Halts It by Pulling the Emergency Signal.

A dude bandit, masked, carrying a pistol and wearing kid gloves, whose courage wasn't as big as his revolver, climbed aboard Southern train No. 13—the Ohio Special—at Flovilla last night and, after striding into the day coach with the determined air of one who intended plundering the train from baggage car to observation, suddenly wilted and leaped from the speeding cars.

The particular thing that made him lose his nerve was the action of Conductor J. H. Graden, of Ellenwood, who jumped for the emergency signal the instant he caught sight of the masked man on board. The shrill scream of the air appliance shot fear into the lone bandit.

Before he had found time to even single out a victim, much less rob him, the bandit was gone. He landed in a heap along the roadbed, undoubtedly mussing up his garb. Detectives and bloodhounds have been sent to the scene.

Women in Wild Rush.

Several women were in the car. They rushed pell mell with the majority of men passengers for the rear cars. Fright took hold of the occupants the moment the masked man and his pistol protruded through the door. Only three men remained sitting. They were in the smoker, at the entrance of which the would-be bandit stood.

No. 13 left Macon two hours late last night at 8 o'clock. At 10:40 o'clock Flovilla was reached, a water stop. While the engine stood at the tank Jim Clinton, a negro porter, stepped from the forward platform of the day coach to the ground. As the train started to roll away he climbed to the steps.

Another form jumped from the darkness, clinging to the step rail. He threw a pistol in the porter's face, commanding him to hustle up the steps and to throw up his hands. The negro darted towards the baggage car yelling an alarm. A second later the bandit appeared in the doorway of the day coach.

Dr. Smith Saves Money.

Flashing a big revolver in Smith's face, the bandit ordered him to turn over his money to him. A lady with a baby on the seat behind Smith screamed, attracting the attention of the passengers, and then pandemonium set in.

Smith, though, having $80 on his person that he did not want to lose, jumped up, and told the bandit that he would see him dead before he would turn over the money.

As the train began to slow up, the bandit became suspicious and turned and fled to the front of the day coach. Swinging down from the platform, he disappeared into the darkness.

Bandit's Description.

The bandit is described as being of medium height, slender and apparently youthful. He wore a blue handkerchief pulled over his face to the brim of a stylish telescoped hat, which had a bow at the back and was green.

He wore kid gloves and tan shoes and a light gray suit. The gloves are believed to have been worn to conceal either a missing finger or some identification mark upon a hand or finger. His trousers were pressed, and he wore a collar and tie.

The pistol was the biggest, every passenger—and even the porter—agree, ever seen in even a stage hold-up. Conductor Graden, himself, declared to a reporter for The Constitution after reaching the Terminal station at midnight, that it was fully as long as the forearm.

DETECTIVE BURNS GIVEN HOT ROAST BY WILL M. SMITH

SAYS BURNS MUST AGREE TO TERMS HE WILL MAKE

Charge of Conspiracy Made by Burns in Roasting Private Detectives—Mysterious Telegram Sent Conley

"Detective Burns in this matter will, at least, be taught that he is merely a 'private detective' working for his employers, 'private parties.' He is not even a citizen. Burns has no rights in this matter. He is in no way connected with the administration of the law of this state."

In this manner Attorney William M. Smith, counsel for Jim Conley, arraigns William J. Burns, America's noted sleuth, who is engaged in probing the Leo Frank case. Mr. Smith last night issued a public statement in answer to the recently published statement from Burns that the sleuth, in event he cared, would interview Conley at will.

Smith declares that if Burns ever sees Conley it will be necessary for the detective to consult with the negro's counsel in a gentlemanly manner, and to agree to conditions which the attorney will stipulate. Smith says that Burns cannot affront the laws which govern the rights of a prisoner in a predicament in such as his client is situated.

Will Smith's Card.

His statement follows in full:

"If the papers are correctly quoting Willaim J. Burns, this movie picture, stage lecturing, tangoing sleuth, following his usual methods of playing to the galleries, he must prove not only a disappointment to his employers, but a downright injury to the cause in which he was hired, and for which, I presume, he is being paid.

"Atlantans generally no doubt hoped that a Daniel had come to judgment and that a truly great mind, with lofty purposes, had quietly moved into this great issue to search out the truth, without parade or display.

"With the responsibility for the right in this crisis of our law administration resting, in a measure, upon me, I had hoped for something from Burns, but with a great deal more hope, however, than faith, I must admit.

"Burns' statements (like many of his swiftly-formed and published opinions) that my co-operation was unnecessary to an interview with Conley may be a prematurely formed opinion, and, at least, an unfortunate expression of them. Unless the sheriff or his deputies fly in the face of the order of court and the expressed wish of this ignorant negro prisoner and his counsel—and I have no reason to believe they will—Mr. Burns will find that his expressed opinion in this matter is sadly wrong.

"Mr. Burns in this matter will at least be taught that he is merely a 'private detective,' working for his employers, 'private parties.' He is not even a citizen. Burns has no rights in this matter. He is in no way connected with the administration of the law of this state.

"If Burns ever sees Conley he must come to me as a gentleman should and express an understanding that he has no rights in the matter, and, if his requests are reasonable and meet with Conley's approval, and Burns will agree to such terms as I dictate, Burns will receive consideration as fair as the situation—in my judgment—demands.

Will Be a Courtesy.

"If Burns is allowed to see Conley it will not be as a matter of right, but as a matter of courtesy from Conley and his counsel.

"It ought to be to the everlasting shame and disgrace of William J. Burns should he come here to perform a high service for truth's sake and sacrifice it upon the altar of his desire for publicity. This is no time for bombast and braggartry.

"The public mind of our people is sternly, determinedly bent upon truth seeking only. Human life is at stake.

C. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

Human justice is in issue. What ever prevails must be right. It is high time to sink individualities and for every man to rise to the highest there is within him.

"As has been quoted: What we need at this time are 'men, tall men, sun-crowned men.'

"For once, give us facts, give us light, give us truth and eliminate the advertising program.

"Lest you crucify where you seek to save.

"WILLIAM M. SMITH."

Burns Charges Conspiracy.

That a conspiracy has been created to throw obstacles into his path in the Frank mystery was openly charged last night to a reporter for The Constitution by Detective Burns.

He attributed the conspiracy to private detectives whose enmity he had incurred by frequent attacks upon their methods which he had made from the lecture platform.

One of the first manifestations of the plot against him was stated by Burns to be a message that was sent Jim Conley, the convicted accomplice, Thursday night by a man in Newark, N. J., who signed himself John Black.

The message advises Conley against Burns, and accuses the detective of being a "fake." In talking to the reporter, Burns asserted that the message had been sent by none other than a representative of a hostile detective organization who had slipped over from New York headquarters to the New Jersey city.

A similar message was received by wire by The Constitution Thursday night from the same person. It requested that Conley be advised of it. It was signed "John Black." All suspicion that the sender was Detective Black, of police headquarters, was dispelled when it was learned that the headquarters man had never been in Newark and was in Atlanta at the time the wire was sent Here Is Black's Message.

The message is as follows:

"Please send this message to Jim Conley: 'Glad you called the fake detective's bluff.' He wanted you. Refuse see him. Ask him about his uncle, Dick Burns, better known as Ohio Dick, notorious bank burglar. Dick did his bit penitentiary Massachusetts, Ohio, New York, Delaware, where his picture and record are.

"JOHN BLACK."

"These dirty liars have pestered me recently," Burns told the reporter. "They can do nothing but such measly, petty tricks as this. They are the most incapable set of asses who ever existed.

"Talk about the penitentiary! If half of their criminal records were known, they'd every one be serving time on rock piles and in chains. They are antagonistic to me because I always have attacked them and have revealed their crookedness. I warn everybody against the private detective. And I don't exclude myself. I lay my cards upon the table and say to all: 'Look at them and see for yourself.'

All Open to Suspicion.

"I show my hand openly to everyone who suspects and let them draw their own conclusions. The act of every private detective is open to suspicion, and the act of everyone should be revealed and should be open and above board. Otherwise it will always rest under suspicion."

An announcement of wide interest was made by Burns Friday afternoon when he declared that he had wired instructions to the headquarters of his agency in New York for Guy B. Biddinger, assistant general manager of the Burns service, to come to Atlanta to assist his chief on the Frank case.

Biddinger is considered the most competent criminal investigator in the Burns service. Burns himself avers that he is the most able detective in America. Biddinger was formerly sergeant of the detective bureau of the Chicago police department, and has a reputation of having solved many of that city's biggest murder mysteries.

Biddinger Here Sunday.

Biddinger will arrive in Atlanta probably Sunday. This will bring to Burns' aid on the Frank mystery two of the most competent criminal specialists in Burns' employ. Dan Lehon, superintendent of the southern branch of the Burns agency, wired his chief Friday that he would be in Atlanta today.

"We are going to sift the Frank mystery thoroughly and exhaustively. When we have finished, I am going to make good every promise I have made. I am going to show the public to its utter satisfaction is the guilty man.

"There will be nothing concealed. My report—which will include every action of me and my men—will be submitted to the public. There will be positively no room for suspicion. Not even the most violently prejudiced can reflect on the association of Burns with the Frank case."

Pays Tribute to Detectives.

During course of his talk with the newspaper man, Burns paid a tribute to the detective department at police headquarters, two members of which had served as prosecutors of Leo Frank. He said that their zeal and vigorous efforts were to be praised instead of censured.

And, he added this of Solicitor Dorsey:

"It is foolish to condemn Dorsey. Dorsey was sincere in his convictions. He felt that he was prosecuting the guilty man, and he felt that he was doing his duty to the final letter. And he is to be commended. If only all of our public prosecutors were as spirited and vigorous as this Dorsey.

"Now, mind you, I'm not saying this to gain the favor of Dorsey. I won't strive for his favor in that manner. When I have accumulated enough facts, I am going to submit them to him, and he will then be glad to offer me his heartiest co-operation.

Can't Bumfoozle Dorsey.

"You can't bumfoozle Dorsey with honeyed words. You've got to show him facts—undisputable facts, at that. He is a man of keen perception, I would judge—although I do not know him personally—and he is a man with remarkable perspicacity.

In explanation of the telegram which referred to an alleged uncle of the detective, Burns told the reporter that the "uncle" scheme was a favorite one with certain private detectives who had tried to injure him for years.

"The fellow to whom they refer was a crook, Dick Johnson, alias Dickie Burns, who once turned informant for me while in prison. In payment, I assisted in obtaining his release, for he had really been convicted unjustly and by mob clamor. He promised to reform and did. I got him several jobs. In fact, he was a sort of protege of mine until he again went crooked through an error of the mails which lost him from my influence.

"Was Proud of Me."

"He was as proud of me as he was of a father. He continually talked of me while he was in prison, and, somehow or other, the report got out that we were related. When he was last sent to prison, he was lost from me, and for years, I have heard nothing of him. Poor fellow! I fear he is dead by now.

"Well, the private detective enemies of mine jumped at the chance to injure me. One day a crook came to me in Mansfield, Ohio, and said that although he didn't know me, he knew my uncle very well, that he had met him in prison.

"I took the crook by the neck and told him:

"'You d—d scoundrel, you go back to your sneaking employer ——' (Here Burns mentioned the name of the head of a nationally known detective organization), and tell him that if all his sins were known, he'd be under the noose with all of his dirty associates. I do not doubt that the crook had been hired to circulate the story, as he was a 'stool pigeon' of the detective outfit.

"The only uncle I ever had is now dead. He formerly was a police commissioner in an Ohio city."

Two Conferences.

Solicitor Dorsey Friday afternoon held a conference with Detective John Black, of police headquarters, after which Black went to the office of William M. Smith, counsel for Jim Conley, where he was closeted with the attorney for considerable while. No one would talk of the two conferences.

Dorsey left last night for Valdosta, where he goes to visit his wife and child who are spending several days with her parents.

SEEK IMPEACHMENT OF JUSTICE WRIGHT

Representative Frank Park Will Seek to Introduce Resolution Following the Charges Made by Cooper.

Washington, March 20.—(Special.)—Representative Park today began to introduce a resolution asking for the impeachment of Justice Daniel Thew Wright, of the District of Columbia, when he was stopped by a motion to adjourn. He will attempt to introduce the resolution in the house early tomorrow.

The impeachment resolution follows charges made against Judge Wright by Wade H. Cooper, president of two Washington banks and a former resident of Georgia. Mr. Cooper was founder of The Moultrie Observer, and once served in the Georgia legislature. He is a brother of L. J. Cooper, president of a Waycross bank, who came to Washington a day or two ago accompanied by John W. Bennett, his attorney.

Cooper and Bennett called on Representative Walker and discussed the impeachment resolution with him, but Mr. Walker was confined to his room by illness, and was unable to discuss the matter fully or investigate the charges against Judge Wright. The two then took their cases to Judge Park, who spent a good part of yesterday going over the affidavits.

Libel proceedings against Wade H. Cooper, who brought the original charges against Judge Wright, are said to be imminent, and impeachment proceedings in the house are planned to precede, if possible, the beginning of suit by Judge Wright. Representative Clayton, chairman of the house judiciary committee, declined several days ago to introduce an impeachment resolution. The fight between Wade H. Cooper and Justice Wright was begun some time ago in a lawsuit involving the control of a local bank.

WILSON DESCRIBES SELF AS PRESIDENT

When he heard it read to congress he said, 'I think it was better than when you read it to me.' I said, 'Senator, there is one thing which I do not think you understand. I not only use all the brains I have, but all I can borrow, and I have borrowed a lot since I read it to you first.' That, I dare say, is what gives the impression of circumspectness. I am listening; I am trying diligently to collect all the brains that are borrowable that I may not make more blunders than it is inevitable that a man should make who has great limitations of knowledge and capacity. And the emotion of the thing is so great that I suppose I must be some kind of a mask to conceal it.

Like a Person Outside.

"I really feel some times as if I were masquerading when I catch a picture of myself in some printed description. In between things that I have to do as a public officer I never think of myself as the president of the United States, because I never have had any sense of being identified with that office. I feel like a person appointed for a certain length of time to administer that office, and I feel just as much outside of it at this moment as I did before I was elected to it. I feel just as much outside of it as I still feel outside of the government of the United States.

"No man could imagine himself the government of the United States; but he could understand that some part of his fellow citizens had told him to go and run a certain part of it the best he knew how. That would not make him the government itself or the thing itself. It would just make him responsible for running it the best he knew how. The machine is so much greater than himself, the office is so much greater than himself; the office is so much greater than he can ever be, and the most he can do is to look grave enough and self-possessed enough to seem to fill it. I can hardly refrain every now and again from tipping the public the wink, as much as to say 'It is only me' that is inside this thing. I know perfectly well that I will have to get out presently. I know that then I will look just my own proper size, and that for the time being the proportions are somewhat refracted and misrepresented to the eye by the large thing I am inside of.

Troubled by Precedents.

"For example, take matters of this sort: I will not say whether it is wise or unwise, simple or grave, but certain precedents have been established that in certain companies the president must leave the room first, and people must give way to him. They must not sit down if he is standing up. It is a very uncomfortable thing to have to think of all the other people every time I get up and sit down, and all that sort of thing. And that when I get guests in my house and the public is shut out, I adjourn being president and take leave to be a gentleman. If they draw back and insist upon my doing something first, I firmly decline. There are blessed intervals when I forget, by one means or another, that I am president of the United States. One means by which I forget is to get a rattling good detective story, get after some imaginary offender, and chase him all over—preferably any continent but this. Because the various parts of this contrivance are becoming painfully suggestive to me. The postoffices, and many other things, which stir reminiscence, have 'sicklied them o'er with a pale cast of thought.' There are postoffices to which I wouldn't think of mailing a letter, which I can't think of without trembling with the knowledge of all the heartburnings of the struggle there was in connection with getting somebody installed as postmaster.'

"Now, if I were free, I would come not infrequently up to these rooms. You know I was in Washington but a few times and for a very few hours until I came last year, and I never expect to see the inside of the public buildings in Washington until my term is over. The minute I turn up anywhere I am personally conducted to beat the band. The curator, and the assistant curators, and every other blooming official turns up, and they show me so much attention that I don't see the building. I would have to say 'stand aside' and let me see what you are showing me.' Some day after I am through with this office I am going to come back to Washington and see it.

Another National Exhibit.

"In the meantime I am in the same category as the National museum, the monument, the Smithsonian institute, or the congressional library. If I only knew an exhibition appearance to assume—apparently I can assume other appearances that do not show what is going on inside—I would like to have it pointed out, so that I could practice it before the looking glass and see if I could look like the monument. Being regarded as a national exhibit, would be much simpler than being shaken hands with by the whole United States.

"And yet that is interesting to me, simply because I like human beings. It is a pretty poor crowd that does not interest you. I think they would have to be all members of that class that devotes itself to 'expense regardless of pleasure' in order to be entirely uninteresting. These look so much alike—spend their time trying to look so much alike—and so relieve themselves of all responsibility of thought—that they are very monotonous indeed to look at; whereas, a crowd picked up off the street is just a jolly lot—a job lot of real human beings, pulsating with life, with all kinds of passions and desires. It would be a great pleasure if, unobserved and unattended, I could be knocked around, as I have been accustomed to being knocked around all my life; if I could resort to any delightful quarter, to any place in Washington, that I choose. I have sometimes thought of going to some customer's—some theatrical costumer's—and buying an assortment of beards, rouge, and coloring and all the known means of disguising myself, if it were not against the law. You see I have a scruple as president against breaking the law, and disguising one's self is against the law, but if I could disguise myself and not get caught, I would go out, be a free American citizen once more, and have a jolly time. I might then meet some of you gentlemen and actually tell you what I really thought."

The president talked entirely informally. He wore a sack suit and stood with his hands in his pockets as he spoke. He was in a happy mood, and his remarks were constantly punctuated with laughter and applause. Mr. Wilson is a member of the Press club, having been elected as an author long before he became president. Members of the cabinet, Speaker Clark and many officials also were guests of the newspapermen.

Conductor Garden's Story.

"I heard the commotion in the coach," Conductor Graden told the reporter, "and I rushed back from the baggage car. Men and women were piling all over each other screaming and yelling.

"It didn't require any second thought to tell what was coming off. My hand instinctively went for the bell cord, which I pulled once. The engine didn't seem to respond, however, and I ducked for the platform to pull the emergency lever.

"I ran into the baggage car and told Baggagemaster Johnson. Johnson asked how many robbers there were, and I told him I only saw one. 'All right, then,' he said, as coolly as you please. 'They'd better stay back there in the coaches, because if they come up here, they're going to get a warm reception.'

TEN COTTON OIL MILLS PURCHASED IN SOUTH

Georgia Properties Among Those Bought by Union Seed and Fertilizer Company.

Little Rock, Ark., March 20.—Cotton seed oil mills in ten southern states were acquired today by the Union Seed and Fertilizer company, a New Jersey corporation with an authorized capital of $8,000,000, according to announcement made tonight by officers of the Arkansas Cotton Oil company, the properties of which in this state were among those taken over by the New Jersey corporation. The owners of the Arkansas concern are also stockholders in the American Cotton Oil company, of New York.

No details of the transaction were made public here.

The Arkansas Cotton Oil company operated mills at Argenta, Cotton Plant, England, Fort Smith, Helena and Pine Bluc and a fertilizer plant at Argenta.

An ouster and penalty suit, alleging violations of the state anti-trust laws, was recently instituted against the Arkansas Cotton Oil company. The assessment of $4,000,000 in penalties was asked.

It is stated that no change will be made in the local management of the mills in this state.

Besides those in Arkansas the mills acquired by the New Jersey corporation are located principally in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

R. F. Munroe, of New York, is president of the Union Seed and Fertilizer company.

enrolled are in the flower of their age and of excellent physique. Decentralization has been the system of organization. Each county forms a separate unit. There are sixty-five battalions, of which eighteen are in Belfast. The volunteers have 400 motor cars, 200 motorcycles and complete system of communication. Eighty thousand rifles, according to Colonel Dacourt, have been distributed to selected men so that wholesale seizure of the weapons would be impossible.

Mr. Nevinson estimates that between 60,000 and 80,000 men would respond to a call for mobilization of volunteers. He thinks the rifles of the volunteers obsolete.

"In scattered groups," continued Mr. Nevinson, "they would try to harass the regular army sent to occupy the country. The movement, therefore, is not a bluff proper. Neither is it formidable from a military point of view. The intention is serious, though fantastic, and it is formidable because no one wants to shoot his own people."

FUNERAL OF CALMETTE IS MARKED BY RIOTING

Many Are Wounded During Outbreaks—Police Obliged to Charge Mob.

Paris, March 20.—Amid many disturbances the funeral of Gaston Calmette, victim of Madame Caillaux, took place today in the Church of Saint Francois de Sales, in the northwestern district of Paris and within a block of the residence of his slayer.

While they were returning from the cemetery, ex-Premiers Barthou and Briand, with Louis Klotz, former minister of the interior, were cheered by the crowd. At the same time a royalist enthusiast shouted, "Cheers for Caillaux." He was attacked by the crowd and struck with canes, and when the disturbance ended was found to have been wounded by a revolver shot. The police had great difficulty in suppressing the disorder.

A group of royalists, which had gathered after the funeral, seized and caned an individual who yelled "Assassin Caillaux!" The man sought refuge in a tobacco store, at the same time drawing a revolver and firing into the crowd. A number of persons were wounded. The police charged the mob vigorously.

Similar incidents occurred at several points in the city.

Many hours before the procession moved, large crowds filled the streets. The police and military authorities were out in force all along the route. The underground railway stations nearby were occupied by large detachments, who had instructions to close them if the crowds became too great to handle. Squadrons of mounted republican guards also were under arms and occupied strategic positions in the vicinity.

The funeral procession, however, reached the cemetery without incident. The crowds along the route were silent and uncovered as the hearse passed.

Among the notable personages present at the funeral were Emile Loubet, former president of the republic; Aristide Briand and Louis Barthou, two former premiers; Prince Murat, Baron Robet de Rothschilds, Fernand Labori, the attorney who is to defend Madame Caillaux; Sarah Bernhardt and hundreds of others.

Ordered by Premier Monis.

The parliamentary scandal over the escape of Henri Rochette, so-called "king of swindlers," was brought to a crisis today when Victor Fabre, public prosecutor, testified before a committee of the chamber of deputies:

"It is true that I received the order from Premier Monis to postpone the Rochette trial."

Fabre continued:

"When I was being examined by this committee in 1912 I was asked whether intervention from above had prompted me to request a postponement of the Rochette trial. Availing myself of the secrecy permitted to officials, I replied, 'No.' I did not consider it within my power to make known my interview with the premier.

"When afterward M. Briand, as minister, asked me to explain, I gave him the document which previously had been in my personal portfolio. He had no right to make public what was confided to him as minister. Every sentence in it, however, is true."

Sewing Machine Patent.

(From The Chicago Journal.)

On the average 500 or 600 applications for patents to sewing machines are filed away every year in the United States patent office. Of that number about 400 are granted, nearly all of them dealing with improvements in machines already manufactured.

Have You a Gas Hot Water Heater In Your Home?

You should prepare now for the summer supply of hot water, when the kitchen fire is out.

There are several kinds of gas water heaters available for home service, all of which we would be pleased to show you. One of the new devices is called the Ruud Cottage Heater.

The Cottage Heater, in addition to giving you perfect hot water, provides a perpetual service which goes on day in and day out with the same precision and lack of attention. You marvel at the ingenuity which makes this service possible, yet it is all very simple—the opening of any faucet releases the gas to the main burners in the heater. The main burners are in turn ignited by a small pilot light which is kept constantly lighted. The water continues to flow hot until the faucet is closed, when the gas is automatically shut off in the heater.

WANTS BOND ISSUE FOR PLAZA PROJECT

Woodward Says He Is Willing to Have Bonds for Greater Hospital Included at Same Time.

Although Mayor James G. Woodward is not in favor of a bond issue to float all the public improvements urged on the city administration, he placed himself squarely on record yesterday as not only favoring an issue of $1,600,000, but advocating such a project providing the money is devoted to the plaza project.

The city has been scheming for years to cover that unsightly stretch of railroad yards extending through the city and which has been characterized by municipal experts and engineers as "Atlanta's cancer." Chief R. M. Clayton, head of the engineering forces of the city, estimates that the cost of building the plaza, including a four or five-story office building over the site of the present union station, will be $1,600,000.

Want Plaza Started.

Mayor Woodward wants the plaza project started next year, if possible. He stated Friday that the scheme is first and last with him, and he explained that he believes the people of Atlanta will vote an issue of bonds to carry the improvement through.

The mayor also favors the issuance of at least $750,000 in bonds for Grady hospital provided the issue is included in the plaza project.

"I would rather see the plaza built than anything that I know of," said the mayor, "and I want to see the newspapers, the chamber of commerce, the city government and the general assembly get together and shape up the project in time to present it to the legislature."

Mayor Woodward's scheme is to have the general assembly take the matter up at the approaching session. The project was presented to the Western and Atlantic commission at its hearings some months ago, and, according to Mayor Woodward, nearly every member of the commission is in favor of the state allowing the city to go ahead and float $1,600,000 in bonds and start the project immediately.

Will Retire Bonds.

The increased taxes from the property in close proximity to the plaza will be sufficient to retire the bonds and pay the interest in thirty years. The project will not cost the state of Georgia one penny, while, on the other hand, the state will derive great benefit from the enhanced value of property through the increase in tax returns. The Western and Atlantic railroad is state property, which will be vastly improved, not alone by the plaza covering the tracks, but because of the modern terminals and the erection of an office building which, it is estimated, will cost in the neighborhood of half million dollars.

Mayor Woodward says it won't do for the state to wait until the expiration of the lease it has with the Louisville and Nashville and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroads, but he strongly advises that the improvement be made subject to the terms of the present lease, which gives the state the right to make any and all improvements which, in the opinion of the legislature, are necessary.

GEORGE WATERS, BAGWELL GRADUATE, GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY EMPLOYERS

Masters Shorthand and Bookkeeping in Five Months—The Perfect Satisfaction Which Mr. Waters Gives Is Due Largely to the Excellent Training Received in Business College, Says His Employers.

GEORGE M. WATERS.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 10, 1914.
Prof. J. O. Bagwell, City.
Dear Sir: Mr. George M. Waters, a graduate from your college, has held a position with us as stenographer for the past two years, and his work has been satisfactory in every way. He has the responsibility of keeping two separate sets of books, with stenographic work from the president, secretary and treasurer and medical superintendent of the Atlanta Sanitarium. We highly recommend Chartier Shorthand for the rapidity it affords our stenographer and also for the ease and accuracy in transcribing his notes. The records in our bookkeeping department are kept with perfect satisfaction, and we believe the credit is largely due your college for the excellent training which Mr. Waters received.

Assuring you of our high regards, we are, Sincerely yours,
THE ATLANTA SANITARIUM,
L. L. Andrews, M. D., Medical Superintendent.

Bagwell Business College has justly won the reputation of equipping its students as winners—it starts them right and helps them all the way. Its graduates are not ordinary, competent clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers. Their business sense has been developed, so they not only do their routine work well, but are ready to recognize and seize the chances to make a lasting business success that comes to every earnest worker.

This is clearly demonstrated by the success of young Mr. Waters, whose cut appears in this article, together with a letter from his employers, showing that he has had the right kind of training.

The new and modern systems of shorthand and bookkeeping taught exclusively at Bagwell Business College have reduced one-half the time and the expense of securing a thorough and practical business training.

The call for really good stenographers and accountants is never supplied. Bagwell students command the highest salaries, gain the highest eminence. A large number of young men and women from all sections of the country will enroll within the next few weeks.

Shall you be one of these?

Write today for illustrated prospectus, which will give full information. Address J. O. BAGWELL, President, 34½ Luckie street, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

THREE-YEAR-OLD BOY IS SCARED TO DEATH BY THE BARK OF DOG

Percy Richards, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Richards, of 129 Garden street, was scared to death by a large barking dog that rushed into the front yard where he was playing Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

Frightened by the dog the little fellow went into convulsions and later died in about fifteen minutes.

His mother had allowed him to go out into the front yard to play with one of his fellow playmates, a little neighbor, when his peculiar death occurred. His mother said that Percy, like a great many small boys, was always afraid of big dogs.

The body was removed to Burkert-Simmons' chapel, and will be sent this morning for funeral and interment to Norwood, Ga.

FRED HOLDER INJURED FOR THE SECOND TIME

An unknown automobile knocked Fred Holder, a white boy, 14 years of age, off his bicycle at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Piedmont avenues Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock, bruising the boy considerably and breaking his shoulder blade. C. R. Hooks, passing by in another machine, took the lad in and rushed him to the Grady hospital. Nothing has been heard of the party driving the car which hit Holder.

About three months ago Holder was hit by a street car at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets, breaking his leg, and was only dismissed from the Grady hospital about three weeks ago.

PEACHTREE TO BE FIVE FEET WIDER

Agreement Is Reached After Conference Between Property Owners and Representatives of City.

Following a conference in the city construction office between Chief R. M. Clayton, Robert F. Maddox, Edward Alfriend and Forrest Adair, it was announced that an agreement had been reached between the city and property owners whereby Peachtree street in front of the Aragon hotel will be widened approximately five feet.

Captain Clayton stated that the sidewalk in front of the hotel will be widened four feet at De Give alley and five feet at Ellis street.

The street committee of council and the improvement committee of the county commissioners were scheduled to hold a meeting Friday afternoon to discuss the Peachtree street widening and some other projects, but owing to the absence of one of the members of the county committee the meeting was postponed.

WILLIAM H. JACKSON SOLE PANAMA JUDGE

Brother of Henry S. Jackson Becomes Judge Single U. S. Canal Zone Court.

Judge William H. Jackson, brother of Henry S. Jackson, of Atlanta, has been appointed by President Wilson as the sole supreme court judge for the Panama Canal Zone. Heretofore the zone has been divided into three United States courts, with a judge for each division. Under the Adamson bill reorganizing the administration of the Canal Zone government, by which Colonel Goethals has been appointed governor of the zone, the three United States court divisions were merged into one, the judge of which is to be supreme, with no appeal to the supreme court at Washington, excepting upon international or constitutional questions.

Judge Jackson was appointed by President Taft, though a democrat at the time. He has rendered distinguished service and his recent appointment by the president was not unexpected. Judge Jackson made no contest for the place.

The judge has mastered the Spanish language since he has lived in the zone, and is held in most cordial esteem not only by all the Americans of the zone, but by the president and his cabinet of the Panama government.

PASSMORE WILL ATTEND INSURANCE AGENTS' MEET

L. K. Passmore, first vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, and Mrs. Passmore are in the city, stopping at the Georgian Terrace. Mr. Passmore has been making a tour of the leading general agencies in the south, and is spending several days in Atlanta. While here he will attend the convention of the agents representing the firm of Bagley & Willet, and will address them at a meeting this afternoon.

The Penn Mutual has shown its confidence in this section by investing $7,000,000 in Georgia securities. Its popularity is attested by the fact that it has in force $30,000,000 of insurance in this state. Mr. Passmore himself is very much pleased with conditions in the south. He notes great improvement since his last visit, particularly in Atlanta. While in the city Both Mr. and Mrs. Passmore have been the recipients of many social courtesies.

FIRST METHODIST WILL HOLD REVIVAL MEETING

Rev. Luther B. Bridges, of Gainesville, Ga., will begin a series of special evangelistic services Sunday at the First Methodist church. The services will last about three weeks.

Mr. Bridges has just concluded a most successful meeting at Trinity Methodist church, in Knoxville, Tenn. The pastor of that church, Dr. Watson, in writing to Dr. DuBose, of the First Methodist church, says that Mr. Bridges' services drew large crowds and resulted in a great number of conversions.

Meetings preparatory to the services to begin Sunday have been conducted by Dr. DuBose for the past two weeks. Mr. Bridges will preach twice each day, at 11:30 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock at night. J. L. Westbrook, an experienced song leader, will direct the singing. Much interest is being felt in these meetings.

The First Methodist church is looking forward to a season of successful revival effort.

MISS BUCK WILL SPEAK AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

The Unitarian church, which has been holding its meetings in the Cleveland-Manning hall, 80 North Pryor street, will meet hereafter in the Women's Club building, 14 West Baker street, beginning next Sunday, March 22. The usual services of the church will be held at 11 o'clock. Miss Florence Buck, of Boston, assistant secretary of the educational department of the American Unitarian association, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning.

The subject of Miss Buck's sermon is: "God So Loved."

DR. WALKER TO SPEAK AT RAILROAD Y. M. C. A.

The Railroad Young Men's Christian association invites all railroad men and their friends to hear Rev. Hugh K. Walker, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the association rooms, 31½ West Alabama street, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Dr. Walker is one of the ablest ministers of Atlanta, and this is an opportunity to hear him which the association wishes to urge upon all railroad men to avail themselves of. Harry Bickford, a leading tenor of the city, will sing, and the association orchestra will play.

DIFFERENCES SETTLED IN SAVANNAH CHAMBER

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) The fight in Savannah's leading commercial organization, the chamber of commerce, has been amicably settled through an agreement between the "regulars" and the "insurgents" over the directors that will be submitted for election at the annual meeting Monday night.

The insurgent element in the organization made a fight to "rejuvenate the organization" by putting fresh blood in as directors. The regulars for a time bitterly opposed the plan, and the scrap waxed lively. In compromising each side gets an equal number of directors.

PERSONAL LIBERTY

"You have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."

—Gal. 5:13

"God is love."

Browning sang—

"All's love, yet all's law."

The sacrifice of children in mills—

Working women and men at less than a living wage—

The brothel requiring the ruin of girls and spreading disease—

Cruelty to convicts—

Breweries and distilleries belching forth poisonous streams which leave in their wake hate and murder, crime, broken hearts and wrecked homes—

The blind tigers, whether in the guise of near-beer saloons or social clubs, the unlawful channels through which these alcoholic poisons pour in Georgia—

The Church of the living God in the name of the Law of Love calls you to war against all of these.

Not to deprive you of dividends, but to save little children.

Not to keep you from growing rich, but to give liberty and life to women and men—

Not to prevent your enjoying life, but to save girls from worse than death and unborn generations from blindness and disease—

Not to spoil good fellowship, but to put a stop to the ruining of health, the wrecking of homes, the promotion of crime, and the spreading of degeneracy—

Not to enslave you, but to keep you free.

"For freedom did Christ set us free."

And today there is the age-old choice—God or Mammon, love or greed, liberty or slavery.

Dividends against the lives of children; money against the homes of women and men; gold against the purity of girls; coin against health, happiness and honor; material wealth against your soul.

Jesus said—

"You can not serve God and Mammon."

Paul wrote—

And note—

THE DECATUR STREET BLIND TIGER—THE NORTH GEORGIA MOONSHINER—THESE BREAK THE LAW TO GET MONEY WITH WHICH TO PAY DEBTS AND TO BUY. THE SOCIAL CLUB, WHICH BREAKS THE LAW BY SELLING LIQUOR, DOES SO TO GET THE MONEY WITH WHICH TO PAY DEBTS AND BUY. THE THREE DERIVE A PROFIT FROM DRUGGING MEN FOR MONEY IN DEFIANCE OF THE EXPRESSED WILL OF THE STATE.

The three fight to destroy respect for law. And you prate of personal liberty in defense of this?

There is this difference—the moonshiner and the Decatur Street blind tiger when caught are punished.

GOD HELP YOU AND US, IF THE DAY EVER DAWNS WHEN EITHER POSITION OR WEALTH WILL LONG PROTECT MEN WHO ARE ENGAGED IN THE DELIBERATE VIOLATION OF THE LAW. SHOULD THAT DAY EVER COME, LIBERTY WOULD INDEED BE DEAD.

There are those in Georgia and in this world who try to follow Christ who believe that that day has not come and will never come.

Christ by His death and life has made us free.

Across the ages we see Stephen stoned, James beheaded, Peter crucified, Paul slain, John Huss and Savanorola burned, and the bones of Cromwell disinterred and hung in chains, but—each time liberty, that perfect law, personal liberty has been more deeply written in the hearts of men and women.

No man, nor group of men, can blot that out which is graven upon the heart of the world by the cross of Christ—

"God is love."

Ever and again, when Greed seeks by passion or cruelty to obscure this word, there comes God's call—

"You have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.

"For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

"THE DEVIL WAS SICK."

It may have been only a coincidence that three days before the senate called up the bill of Senator Smith, of South Carolina, providing for federal regulation of cotton exchanges, the New York Cotton exchange announced a voluntary change in its system of grading and classification. Knowledge of the sinuous psychology of what has been called the "greatest gambling institution on earth" kindles our suspicion that the action was deliberate and not spontaneous. It is all over again a case of—

"The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be;
The devil was well, the devil a monk was he!"

The New York Cotton exchange has for some time known that it was in the mind of congress to amend or end the exchange. Loving life, the exchange is evidently trying to "beat congress to it." The one weak point about the action of the exchange, whereby it commits itself to the same standard of classification in use at New Orleans, is that folk are proverbially distrustful of death-bed repentances.

No one wants to incontinently wipe out of existence the New York Cotton exchange or any other exchange.

The annihilation of these institutions would deprive traders and mill owners of the legitimate right of hedging, the practice upon which the system of long-time contracts for delivery of goods is based.

The farmer also would suffer, since there would be no balance wheel to quotations and we would be virtually at the mercy of selfish European interests.

All that is asked of the exchanges is that they be made to observe a fair and honest contract system.

That assured, the exchanges will be left undisturbed to pursue their legitimate functions. Without it they will and should be abolished.

THE PRESIDENT AND MEXICO.

President Wilson's unofficial announcement with regard to the approaching Mexican crisis is nothing more nor less than a reaffirmation of his ultimatum many times reiterated to prominent Mexicans. He says that he maintains no blacklist of the Mexicans personally unacceptable to the administration. His one idea, and it is axiomatically fundamental, is that this government will recognize no one who is not acceptable to all factions, and no one whose ascendency represents merely arbitrary force and not the expression of the public will. The talk that the president may send a commission to Mexico, and that Huerta as well as Carranza and Diaz will confer with its members, is an encouraging gleam from a sinister situation.

One of the weaknesses of Mr. Wilson's program, and we assume he is duly cognizant of and has made provision for meeting it, is that in the present untrained and demoralized state of the Mexican electorate a fair expression of public opinion is among the improbabilities. The nation is essentially an illiterate one, in which the game of government has heretofore been run solely by a very thin upper crust of highly educated and wealthy individuals. How the uneducated millions of peons and half-breeds are to return an intelligent verdict upon their leaders is beyond our immediate ken. No one is better informed of these facts than the president. It is possible that he will be contented with a man to whom no faction is actively hostile, one strong enough to keep down disaffection and able to command the confidence of the huge body of Mexican illiterates. The qualifications sound difficult, but there are in Mexico today three or four men who may conceivably measure up to them.

All this, of course, is in the nature of counting chickens before they are hatched. It may be that at the show-down the Mexicans will be utterly unable to agree among themselves. That means intervention. In the meantime, the president cannot be accused of leaving one stone unturned to prevent a climax the possibilities of which no judicial mind can view with complacency.

THE FEDERAL ROAD MEASURE.

President Wilson has broadly intimated that he will support the Shackleford bill, already reviewed in The Constitution. The measure pledges the federal government in substantial amount to co-operate with the states in construction and maintenance of highways. Such action on part of the president means the bill will pass at the present session of congress, the appropriations to be available during the current year, provided of course the individual states comply with requirements.

Under the Shackleford bill Georgia would ultimately draw nearly or quite $700,000 from the federal treasury to be expended upon roads. The one drawback so far as this state is concerned, the question as to whether or not convict labor on roads could be accepted as the state's cash equivalent to the government's offer, has already practically been ironed out in the senate. Only technicalities remain to be effected. The other requirement, that the state maintain a bona fide highway commission, can and will be met as soon as the legislature convenes in June.

The Constitution confidently predicts that the enactment of this legislation will prove one of the strongest and most popular features of the administrative program. For years the nation, irrespective of party, has been clamoring for real and not fictional aid to highway construction. And here it is nearly materialized, with hardly a ripple save that pertaining to the task of compromising slight divergencies of opinion. If congress put through no measures other than the tariff and currency laws and this roads bill it would have wrought in a manner not approached by its predecessors in many years.

REAL PATRIOTISM.

The senate witnessed the other day the remarkable spectacle of Senator Lodge, republican, of Massachusetts, vigorously defending the administration's policy in caring for the Mexican refugees interned this side of the Rio Grande.

It is gratifying that the long-drawn-out Mexican crisis has brought to the surface a good deal more patriotism than jingoism and peanut politics. Of course, in both house and senate there have not been lacking small or bitter minds willing to grasp questionable political advantage at the expense of ridiculing the administration in a national crisis. We have had that sort of thing before, in war no less than in peace. But there is less of it than at any time in the history of the country. The wholly selfish efforts of a few newspapers to humiliate and embarrass the administration have had precious little respectable support in congress.

All of which is heartening to the American who believes in progress and optimism. The day of the rabid partisan has passed, or at least is passing. We will always have parties, under our form of government. But indications multiply that party fervor will increasingly be unable to tempt men to forget their primary duty to the whole nation or to the dignity of the nation's service.

WHEN BUSINESS WAKES.

An encouraging development of the national legislative situation is the projection of legitimate business influence into its various processes. Among the latest illustrations is a bill looking to the regulation of stock exchanges, drawn by the Boston chamber of commerce and submitted to the senate banking and currency committee by request of that body.

Few of our legislators are finished business men.

They need information from business men, not lobbyists or interested individuals.

Logically, this sort of co-operation is of mutual aid.

The business man is saved from the demagogue.

The legislator is saved from the public wrath.

May they come closer together in the future.

It is needless to say that the next speech Ambassador Page delivers will not be extemporaneous.

The springlike weather is bad for the coal barons, but the popular petition soon will be, "Heaven save us from the ice trust."

Professor Taft is still paying his respects to the Colonel, who is too busy slaying wild animals to notice the knocks.

A few thousand Mexicans at Uncle Sam's Texas hotel don't give a rap for the high cost of the daily bill of fare.

Mr. Taft protests against being called "Colonel." This is either a slam at a certain great hunter or a criticism of his Kentucky friends.

Now that Mr. Bryan has six grandchildren, he may have to put on more lecture dates.

If Huerta says anything to Lind he need not counsel him to "keep it dark."

The Colonel will never consent to those progressive candidates running away with his party.

President Wilson may belong to a Don't-Worry club, but we doubt it.

Keep the music going—

A joy-dance, good people!
Trouble comes too soon,
And so, we want to dance it
From the green earth to the moon!

Hand sweet Joy his fiddle! He's the one

When he strikes the right tune—when he

Stars twinkle like they're dancing on the

A joy-dance, good people!
All the world in tune,
And so, we'll dance our trouble
From the green earth to the moon!

The Rayner Tribune expresses this "want" in its editorial columns:

"Wanted, an editor who can read, write and argue politics, and at the same time be religious, funny, scientific and historical at will, write to please everybody, know everything without asking or being told, always having something good to say about everybody else, live on wind and make more money than enemies. For such a man a good opening will be made (in the graveyard)."

MORBIDITY.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Morbidity is a contagious disease. And yet in no civilized community are there quarantine rules against it! So that each man must bear any individual responsibility for its exterminaton.

Morbidity is what happens when you come to think that your lot is the SADDEST and most difficult in the world—also it's the thing that follows brooding and inaction.

The disease of Morbidity acts very much the same upon humans as the pictured and acted stage play did upon the woman who wept bitterly over the acted scenes while her coachman was freezing outside. Every time you allow yourself to become Morbid, you may be sure that the innocent will suffer from it the most.

The cure—better still, the preventive for Morbidity—is ACTION in service and good works. What enters our characters is sure to sometimes come out. The atmosphere of the world is filled with what each man is.

The Great Trials of Historu

TRIAL OF BENJAMIN DISRAELI.

The ancient court of king's bench has been the scene of many remarkable historical trials, but it has been but rarely that the "criminal" was afterwards loaded with honors, and in but one instance succeeded to the prime ministry. But such a thing happened and in the reign of Queen Victoria. Benjamin Disraeli (or D'Israeli, as it was then spelled), then member for Maidstone, was the defendant.

In 1837 Disraeli was thirty-two years of age, and although he had made four attempts he failed to get into parliament. At last his luck changed and, together with a Mr. Wyndham Lewis, he was returned as a conservative member for Maidstone.

Disraeli made his famous but unsuccessful speech during the autumn session, which was convened for the purpose of voting a civil list for the young Queen Victoria, and his exaggerated language and fantastic appearance were bound to ensure a fiasco. Let us read what has been written by a reporter:

"The impatience of the house would not allow the honorable member to finish his speech, 'and during the greater part of the time he was on his legs, he was so much interrupted that it was impossible to hear what he had to say.'"

Within a few months from the delivery of this maiden speech, Wyndham Lewis, Disraeli's colleague, died. At the bye-election by this rendered necessary, the conservative candidate, John Minet Fector, headed the poll. But a petition was presented against his return, and when it came up for hearing Mr. Austin, Q. C., who was counsel for the petitioner, seems to have acted with perfect propriety in his opening speech. But it was made to appear from a report of it in an evening paper that he had accused Disraeli of having, at the 1837 election, bribed the constituency to return him. This was copied next morning into the London papers, and thence found its way into the provincial press.

The chairman of the committee, who was rather deaf and very mischievous, when asked by Disraeli if the report of Austin's speech was true, replied in the affirmative.

As a matter of fact, Austin had made no charge against Disraeli at all, but Bruce had misled the latter as to what had taken place. Late that night Disraeli wrote a letter and sent it to all the papers, in part as follows:

"I therefore repeat that the statement of Mr. Austin was false, and inasmuch as he never attempted to substantiate it, I conclude that it was on his side but the blustering artifice of a rhetorical hireling, availing himself of the vile license of a loose-tongued lawyer, not only to make a statement that was false, but to make it with a consciousness of its falsehood."

The paragraph quoted was a libel on Austin, who did not bring action for damages, but applied for a criminal information to be tried in the court of king's bench. The court was congested on November 22 to witness the trial of the handsome novelist and M. P. who had challenged O'Connell to a duel and was the special protege of Lyndhurst.

The first Lord Denham presided on the bench, and the prosecutors were Campbell, Pollock and Follett. Campbell, in addressing the judges, denied entirely that Austin had ever made the imputation. He also commented very adversely on Disraeli not having made the apology as Austin might have received, and that Austin wished to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the court.

Disraeli, having admitted his trespass, pleaded for leniency. He confessed he was mistaken and felt pain and mortification, inasmuch as he had wounded the feelings of an honorable, respectable and learned man who had not attempted to injure him. He though that the apology he offered was, under the circumstances, such as a gentleman should make, and with which the offended party should be cheerfully content.

The judges, having consulted, said that Disraeli, in his address, had made it seem to them that he had no desire to injure the feelings of Mr. Austin, and had, in their opinion, made ample apology, which, if their lordships thought was satisfactory, Mr. Austin was satisfied.

To this Lord Denham remarked: "Then I understand you to say that in consequence of the satisfactory terms of this apology you do not feel called upon to pray for judgment upon the defendant, provided we think we can, with any degree of propriety, pass over his offense unpunished."

The attorney general having replied in the affirmative, said that it was to the satisfaction of the court that the matter should rest on reparation and apology, and that it should be considered at an end.

And so the matter ended as tersely as the report in the Times to the effect that "Mr. Disraeli then withdrew."

Hauling Materials in Motor Trucks.

(From The Engineering Record.)

Although the horse and the mule will long continue to be used on road work, their day for hauling road materials is fast passing. Motor trucks of 3 to 5-ton capacity are becoming popular for hauling wherever the roads are sufficiently good to admit their use. Recently the use of "trailers" has added much to the popularity of motor trucks. While a "trailer" decreases the speed of transportation it greatly increases the tonnage hauled each trip. Traction engines hauling trains of wagons have been in successful use for many years.

As to the relative economic merits of motor trucks and traction engines, no data yet available point either to the one or the other as being clearly preferable. In making comparisons, several things, other than the ton-mile cost while hauling during the road building season, should be kept in mind: Whether the hauling plant can be used for other purposes than road building; whether it can be used in the winter; whether it destroys existing roads and subgrades sufficiently to be objectionable; whether there is room to maneuver.

Not a few men are making it their sole business to contract for hauling. Such men often work their hauling plant two shifts daily, running about 18 hours out of the 24. This greatly reduces the interest cost per ton-mile. A not uncommon price is 15 cents per ton-mile over rough roads and under severe conditions.

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

The date for the meeting of the state executive committee has been definitely set for Saturday, April 4.

Governor Slaton on Friday received a letter from Chairman William J. Harris, of the committee, apprising the governor that the date of April 4 had been selected, if satisfactory to the governor. The governor has informed the chairman that he has no preference.

The letter to the governor states that owing to the fact that several members of the committee cannot attend a meeting from April 6 to 13 on account of court, that it has seemed best to select the earlier date, April 4 being convenient to the majority of the members.

At the meeting it is expected that the resignation of Senator W. S. West, as vice chairman of the committee, will be tendered.

It is also anticipated that after this meeting the races for the various offices, the terms of which expire now, will begin to take a more definite shape.

HARDWICK BEGINS ACTIVELY HIS CAMPAIGN FOR SENATE

Washington, March 20.—(Special.)—Representative Thomas W. Hardwick has begun actively his campaign for election to the United States senate by sending out under his congressional frank 300,000 copies of speeches he has made in congress.

These cover a wide range of topics, and touch upon the tariff, the trusts, currency legislation, workmen's compensation, popular election of senators and other public issues which have been before congress during the twelve years Mr. Hardwick has represented the tenth district.

Of course, this matter is of an official character and can be sent broadcast over the state free of charge under the representative's frank. The only expense involved is that of having the pamphlets printed at the government printing office.

Representative Hardwick, because of illness, canceled his engagement for a speech before the Home Market Club of Boston, where he expected to outline the issues on which he will seek election to the senate. It is now expected that he will take the stump early in April and be absent from Washington a great deal from that time on, prosecuting his campaign for the short-term senatorship.

ABSENCE OF THE "WISE ONES" MARKS FRIDAY AT CAPITOL

Friday at the state capitol was marked, in so far as politics is concerned, with an absence of politicians or those inclined to talk politics. Hardly a day passes without a number of those politically interested about the state "dropping in on" the governor, or calling upon the various state-house officials to discuss the "situation."

The "situation," with the exception of the probability of J. Gordon Jones, of Cordele, entering the race for the attorney generalship, remains, from all outward appearances, unchanged, and is decidedly in an attitude of waiting upon the governor.

THEY ARE STRONG FOR SLATON, WHATEVER HE RUNS FOR

More sentiment and support for Governor Slaton in whatever decision he may make develops daily. A number of newspapers about the state have expressed the position that they are with the governor, whether it be for one of the senatorships or for another term in the governor's chair.

Also there occasionally appears a man who first thought that the governor would run for the senate, and now believes that he will run for re-election to the governor's chair instead.

SERIOUS OPPOSITION NOT EXPECTED BY FRIENDS OF JUDGE BROYLES

Should Judge Roan decline to run for re-election to the appellate bench, it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that Judge Broyles will be his successor.

As yet, Judge Roan has not announced whether or not he will stand for re-election, but it is the opinion of those very close to him that at the expiration of the present term he will not be before the people for the place.

And to date no one has appeared to oppose Judge Broyles. It is yet a little early to predict that no opposition will be forthcoming, but serious opposition is not anticipated by the friends of Judge Broyles who would see him on the appellate bench.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY VOTES AGAINST FORMING OF NEW COUNTY

Mount Vernon, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) At the last session of the legislature a bill was introduced to further cut and divide Montgomery county by the creation of a new county out of the northern end of Montgomery, the new county to be called Truetlen. The new county of Toombs was taken largely from Montgomery county in 1905 and in 1912 the new county of Wheeler was created out of Montgomery county's territory, no part of it being taken from any other county. The bill to create Truetlen county does not take any territory from any county except Montgomery.

The question of the further division of Montgomery county was submitted to the people of the county at the primary held last Wednesday, the democratic executive committee arranging for a vote on this question under instructions from a mass meeting of the citizens of the county, and the result in this primary was against the creation of the new county, the new county proposition receiving 477 votes and against the new county receiving 586 votes. It will be of interest to note that of the votes cast in favor of the new county 181 of them were polled at Soperton, which hopes to be the county seat of the new county if created.

It is hoped that this expression from the people to be affected will be heeded by the legislature in the approaching session this summer.

GLYNN COUNTY COMMITTEE FAVORS EARLY PRIMARY

Brunswick, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—The democratic executive committee of Glynn county will hold a meeting early next week for the purpose of fixing a date for the county primary.

While no date has as yet been decided on, it is understood that a majority of the members of the committee, as well as the various local candidates, are in favor of an early primary, and it is expected that it will be called for some time early in May.

COMMITTEE SETS MAY 12 AS DATE OF WALTON COUNTY PRIMARY

Monroe, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—The Walton county democratic executive committee met a few days since and set May 12 as the date for holding the county primary. Up to this time there are very few candidates in the field, but the indications are that several more will enter within the next week or so.

The new committee organized with Hon. Orrin Roberts chairman and Editor Ernest Camp secretary, they having been chosen at a mass meeting a few days previous.

NUMBER OF INTERESTING RACES IN PROGRESS IN FLOYD COUNTY

Rome, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—One of the warmest political races in north Georgia will be that for sheriff of Floyd county. W. G. Dunehoo, the present sheriff, has announced for re-election, and has on his ticket as deputies D. O. Byars, Joseph Watts and Burl Salmon. Sheriff Dunehoo is opposed by J. R. Barron, one of the present deputies, on whose ticket are G. W. Smith, J. M. Davis, Henry Watts and John Bobo.

A number of other interesting races are in progress. Leonard G. Todd and John M. Vandiver are candidates for tax collector. J. Tom Jenkins, Zack Salmon and T. B. Hendricks are candidates for tax receiver. It is probable that D. W. Simmons, county clerk, and T. B. Owens, county treasurer, will be unopposed.

HARDY RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF PIKE COUNTY COMMITTEE

Barnesville, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—The new democratic executive committee of Pike met Thursday at Zebulon and organized for the next two years. B. H. Hardy, of Barnesville, was re-elected chairman and W. M. Jordan, of Molena, was re-elected secretary.

TWO SANDERSVILLE CITIZENS ARE CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

Sandersville, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—It is now definitely known that Judge B. T. Rawlings will not be a candidate for re-election to judge of the middle judicial circuit. He has aspirations to be congressman from the tenth. Also has A. Willis Evans, brother of Judge B. D. Evans, supreme court, of Atlanta. Washington county will furnish two of the eight candidates who propose to run in the August primary. Mr. Evans ran against Mr. Hardwick four years ago, when O. R. Eve, of Augusta, was in the race.

Hon. J. J. Harris and S. J. Taylor, Washington county representatives, will both be in the race for re-election this fall. Both will have opposition in the primary.

Washington county's primary election takes place Thursday. Sixteen candidates are in the race for seven offices.

A Story of the Moment

By RACONTEUR.

THE SPELLBINDERS.

"I am informed that your husband takes an active part in public matters, as all good citizens should," said the man with sidewhiskers, "and I have no doubt that he's often called upon to make a speech. Now, it's an unfortunate fact that the average American citizen is at his worst when called upon for a speech, because he doesn't know the rudiments of rhetoric. It was with this fact in mind that the great Professor Doodlespieler wrote his book on elocution and oratory. With this book in his possession any man may rival Demosthenes or J. Hamilton Lewis, and I am offering it at such a low price—"

"Oh, go along with you," exclaimed Mrs. Curfew. "Even if your book was the best in the world, I wouldn't buy it, because I was brought up in a respectable home, and my father taught me to place no trust in people who wear sidewhiskers. I have sympathy for men who are crippled or deformed, for they can't help themselves, and only yesterday I gave a good hickory shirt to a man whose ears had been bitten off by a tame bear; but no man is compelled to wear sidewhiskers, and such deformities don't appeal to charitable hearts. It may be that your wife is bedridden and that you have many children crying for bread, but nobody will feel sorry for you until you have had those fire escapes condemned and removed.

"And if you must go around pestering busy women trying to sell books, you might at least sell cookery books, or some volumes that will make people nobler and better. We have too many orators in this country as it is, for when a man once gets the idea that he is a spellbinder, he is totally unfit for useful work, and most men are only too eager to believe that they can talk rings around Cicero and Bryan.

"My husband is a fine man, taking him by and large, and he is universally respected. He can do many things well, but he can't speak worth a cent. When he talks low he rumbles, and when he talks high he whistles, and every once in a while he forgets what he was going to say, and stands before a crowd like an idiot struck by lightning, so that even his worst enemies would feel sorry for him. It took me the longest time to convince him that public speaking isn't his strong point. He used to be always reading the orations of Daniel Webster and the rest of the famous windjammers, and he bought books on elocution and studied them when he should have been spading up the garden. In spite of all his studying he couldn't overcome his habit of getting his wires crossed whenever he tried to speak, and he made himself ridiculous every time he opened his mouth.

"The last time he was a candidate for the school board he attended a political meeting and was called upon for a few remarks. I was sitting by him and tried to persuade him to refuse, but he was bound and determined, and had his way. He got up on the platform and tried to turn loose a speech he had been preparing for weeks. He wanted to say that the schools are the bulwarks of our liberties, but he just couldn't get it straight. First he said the bulls were the schoolwarks of our liberties, and when the audience got over having fits, and the hysterical women had been carried out, he tried it again, and said that the warks were the schoolbulls of our liberties, and then the people just got up and threw the chairs at each other in their glee, and I went up to the platform and grabbed his coat tails and pulled him off and managed to get him home.

"For six months after that everybody he met asked him if he still thought the bulls were the schoolwarks of our liberties, and he was always coming home with a black eye or a damaged nose, for he wouldn't take such jokes in good part, and when he attempted to chastise people they resented it. Of course he lost the election, and has been a broken-hearted man ever since, and I don't know what he would say if he saw you standing here trying to sell a book on oratory."

Promoting Farm Development

R. W. Perkins, president of the Shore Line Electric railway, Norwich, Conn., has announced a campaign on the part of the company in behalf of the farmers in the territory which the railway serves. The state has $1,000 which it is prepared to appropriate to New London county for agricultural development, provided a sufficient amount can be raised by the people of the county to defray the expenses of a demonstrator.

The Shore Line Electric railway has offered to make an annual contribution of $500 toward the expense of this demonstrator and a guarantee of $500 additional, provided the organization which it is proposed to create is not able to care for the full amount above the $1,000 given by the state and the $500 by the company.

Plans have already been made by the Shore Line Electric railway to alter an old factory in New London into a commodious freight terminal, and Mr. Perkins has offered to furnish quarters to be used in connection with the New London County Farm Bureau, the name under which the farmers will probably organize.

The company also proposes to turn over a portion of the second floor in the new freight terminal for an electric railway express station as an assembling and distributing point for such farm produce as is brought in. There will be connections with the tracks of the steam railroads.

IN MANIACAL FURY MAN SLAYS FOUR

J. A. Eubanks, of Oak Park, Ga., Cuts Wife's Head Off With Ax, Stabs Two Babes and Suicides.

Oak Park, Ga., March 20.—J. A. Eubanks, a farmer of this place, at 3 o'clock this morning killed his wife and two young daughters as they slept, and after setting fire to his home, barn and several tenants' houses, fired a bullet through his own forehead. Physicians say that he can live only a few hours. Continued ill health is supposed to have driven him temporarily insane.

Eubanks almost completely severed his wife's head from her body with an ax. H ethen stabbed his four-year-old daughter and his six-month-old baby girl to death.

Eubanks then set fire to the barn belonging to Mr. Griffin, on whose place he has lived, and to several tenants' houses. After firing his own home he awakened a next door neighbor, told him what he had done and fired a bullet through his own head.

Several of the houses Eubanks fired were practically destroyed. His own home was only slightly damaged.

Eubanks is about thirty years old. He is well thought of in this community.

Eubanks' Own Story.

Ollie Eubanks' own version of the terrible tragedy enacted by him on his plantation, in Burke county, last night, was repeated today by Charles Page, son of a neighboring farmer, whom Eubanks visited after killing his wife and two children and firing his plantation buildings.

Calling the boy from his house, Eubanks told him that he had lived in trouble and torment for five years and that he was then on the road to hell, and that he wanted his family with him.

He said he had some dispute with his wife, who had retired, and that he had knocked her out of bed. Later he went for an ax, with which he hacked off her head. After killing his wife he went to the bed of an infant daughter and plunged a knife into her skull, killing her instantly. He then pulled another child across the footboard of its bed and cut its throat with the same knife. Not satisfied with the destruction already wrought, he procured a torch and set fire to every outbuilding on the place, after which he filled the mouth of the well with trash, smashed the well bucket and cut the rope, so that no water could be obtained to fight the fire.

After reciting the details of his horrible deeds, he ordered the Page youth to call his father from the house. While young Page was gone to get his father, he pulled a 44-caliber pistol from his pocket and fired a bullet through his head.

TRAITOR GIVES UP WARSHIP TO FATHER OF GIRL HE LOVES

San Diego, Cal., March 20.—Love for the beautiful daughter of the rebel general commanding the forces of Topolobampo, Mexico, caused Lieutenant Malpica, executive officer of the former federal gunboat Tampico, to forget his allegiance to President Huerta, of Mexico, and surrender the war craft to the father of the girl he loved, according to the story told by passengers arriving here yesterday from ports on the west coast of Mexico.

Lieutenant Malpica met the girl, who is now his wife, some months ago at a dance in Guaymas. They fell in love, but the girl refused to accept the officer's proffer of marriage unless he took the Tampico to Topolobampo from Guaymas and turned it over to her father.

Malpica is said to have represented to his commanding officer that he received word from Mexico City to take the Tampico to Topolobampo and shell the rebels. The captain, it is said, assented. At Topolobampo he was seized and sent to Mazatlan.

Malpica was put in command of the Tampico and a few days later was married to the rebel general's daughter.

ZORN DIES AT MACON FROM GUNSHOT WOUNDS

Sycamore, Ga., Man Succumbs to Wounds Inflicted by Clark Brothers.

Macon, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—Jesse Zorn, 28 years old, who was shot in his own home, at Sycamore, Ga., on Tuesday night by persons who suspected that he was a burglar, died in a hospital here today.

Zorn, while conscious, was never able to give his version of the shooting.

A negro informed G. W. and A. J. Clark that a man was acting strangely at the Zorn home. The Clarks learned that Mrs. Zorn was at church, and when they investigated, Zorn had reached the interior of his home. They commanded him to give an explanation. Zorn made no reply. He attempted to escape from a rear door and was shot three times. His doctor stated that he was frightened speechless.

Both of the Clarks are under arrest at Ashburn.

Feeling Against Clarks.

Ashburn, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) No further action has been taken against the Clark brothers, who fatally shot Jesse Zorn at Sycamore Tuesday night, as a result of Zorn's death today. They are still held in the county jail here on a warrant charging murder, and stoutly maintain that they shot Zorn believing him to be a burglar.

If the Clarks do not ask for a preliminary hearing they will be held for action of the grand jury at the August term of the superior court.

According to Sheriff King, who has been in close touch with the situation in the Sycamore district, the home of Zorn and the Clarks, since the shooting, the feeling there against the Clarks, while very bitter, will not lead to violence against the unfortunate young men as a result of Zorn's death.

The people of the community are deeply moved over the manner in which Zorn, who was well known and highly esteemed, met his death, and it is certain that the actions of the Clarks in the shooting of Zorn will be thoroughly probed to ascertain if their motive was what they claim.

CHAMBER WILL HELP CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is taking definite steps toward the cleaning up of the city before the Shriners convene in May. The street committee of the chamber will meet Monday in the chamber of commerce office and begin active work to cooperate with the clean-up campaign of the city, and they urge every citizen in Atlanta to join in that cooperation.

The street committee is composed of B. M. Grant, chairman; F. O. Foster, J. B. Campbell, D. W. Yarbrough, Fred A. Hoyt, R. S. Wessels, R. L. Rhorer and John D. Kearney. Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, president of the City Federation of Woman's Clubs, will supervise the efforts of the women and school children toward creating here a spotless town.

All debris and trash must go, says the chamber of commerce, the public buildings must be put in order and the pain brush lavishly applied in needed spots over the city to make Atlanta presentable.

TO OPPOSE INCREASE IN MACON CO.'S STOCK

Macon, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—Wallace Miller announced today that he would oppose before the railroad commission next Tuesday the application of the Macon Railway and Light company to increase its capital stock to $2,900,000 on the ground that the company is already over capitalized.

The company is at present capitalized at $2,200,000, and is asking for permission to issue $700,000 additional stock.

Mr. Miller says his understanding is that the company is dissatisfied with the recent increase in rates granted it by the railroad commission, and wants to increase its capital stock so it can go before the commission again and ask for a further increase on the ground that present rates do not give a fair return on the investment.

LOOT OF BURGLARS DUG UP IN FIELD

Discovery of Sum of Money Stolen at Milledgeville Is Thought to Fasten Robbery on Men Now in Jail.

Milledgeville, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—About a peck of money in coin of the amount stolen from the safe of C. H. Bonner here some week ago by a band of yeggmen, was recovered this afternoon. The sack containing it was dug up in an old gully on the outskirts of Milledgeville.

The discovery was brought about by Detective Moore, who had succeeded in getting the information from John Huley, a negro who was in the employ of John Braxley, who is now in jail here charged with being one of the leaders in the robbery.

After gaining knowledge of the hiding place Detective Moore brought Huley here from Macon this morning, and the negro carried him to the place where the sack of coin was buried. The money was promptly brought to Bonner's store and the search for other money was continued.

The negro said that Braxley told him to take the money and throw it in the river, as it was crazy money and he didn't care to have anything to do with it, and that he then took it and buried it.

Collection of Rare Coins.

This was the collection of rare coins of different denominations which Bonner had collected.

The negro also said Braxley had a very much larger sack of money, but he doesn't know where he put it.

Most of the money consisted of half dollars known as the Parker half dollars, and has an interesting history. Long years ago an old man by the name of Parker, in Wilkinson county, buried a quantity of half dollars in his smokehouse, and they remained there for a long time and were discovered after his death. The salt had badly corroded some of them, making them very black. Mr. Bonner made it a point to collect them, and had a great many in his possession. This is the second time this money has been buried and recovered.

Detectives claim that the finding of this money settles the guilt on John Braxley, Lunsford and Knight, who are all in custody. At present the effort is to recover as much of the stolen money as possible, and the amount is said to be very large.

SMITH SENTENCED FOR KILLING ODUM

Lyerly, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—John Smith, a white man 35 years of age, was convicted in Chattooga superior court Wednesday of killing Marion Odum at Menlo last October. The jury, after being out only half an hour, returned a virdict of voluntary manslaughter, and Judge Wright immediately sentenced Smith to twenty years in the penitentiary.

The killing, according to the testimony, was the result of a crap game, Odum winning a sum of money from Smith and the latter demanded that it be returned A fuss ensued, and Smith shot Odum with a shotgun, killing him instantly. Smith's testimony was that Odum attacked him with a knife and he shot in self-defense.

BIDS ARE OPENED FOR SEWAGE PLANT

Disposal Plant Will Be Erected at Battle Hill Sanitarium.

Bids for the construction of a sewage disposal plant at Battle Hill sanitarium were opened by Chief of Construction Clayton yesterday. The lowest bid was offered by R. M. Walker, a local contractor, to erect the plant according to the specifications, for $2,796.

The finance committee in making up the January budget placed only $2,200 in the sheet for the plant, or $596 less than the lowest bid. Captain Clayton will ask the finance committee to provide the difference between the amount appropriated and the amount bid, in order that the work can be started.

The plant will be a miniature of the Peachtree and Proctor creek plants, which cost the city almost half a million dollars. The plant is designed to take care of the sanitarium which accommodates about 150 partients. The plants will be on the Imhoff tank pattern and filter beds.

MAIL POUCHES STOLEN FROM WAGONS IN MACON

One Package Containing Checks for Thousands of Dollars Found in Alley.

Macon, Ga., March 20.—Three first-class mail pouches have been stolen from mail wagons in this city during the last few days, it was learned today, after the rifled contents of one pouch had been recovered and two negroes placed under arrest.

The pouches were missing when checked at the transfer office at the depot. The amount of the loot is not known.

One empty pouch was found in an alley a couple of days ago. This morning negroes removing trash from the mailing room of a newspaper office discovered several letters that had not been opened. An investigation was begun and the postoffice inspectors were called in.

One package found was from the Macon clearing house, addressed to New York, and contained many thousands of dollars in checks. Another letter contained a note for $1,000. Many others contained checks. Open-faced letters containing bills were not tampered with.

The negroes under arrest will be given a hearing in the morning.

MADE WIFE OCCUPY ROOM WITH OTHERS

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) That she was forced by her husband to occupy a room with him and another person, is one of the sensational allegations contained in the divorce libel of Mrs. Marie Willhoit filed in the Chatham superior court today.

The indignities which her husband heaped upon her made her a total wreck, she charges. She charges her husband, Thomas H. Willhoit, with habitual intoxication.

SAY M'NEW WAS BRIBED TO CONFESS ROBBERY

Alleged Bank Robber Brought to Atlanta Pending His Trial in April.

Rome, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—Mark McNew, who has confessed to complicity in the bank robbery at Lyerly on November 29, has been removed to Atlanta from the county jail of Chattooga county.

His transfer was decided upon because of rumors and reports that he had been offered inducements to testify to certain things while in the Chattooga jail, and in his confession McNew accused Frank Matthews, another suspect, of having induced him to leave his home on Dirtseller mountain and come to Lyerly, where the bank was robbed. McNew's attorneys stated in court that Deputy Sheriff John Bridges had overheard inducements made to McNew to make a confession implicating Matthews.

It was rumored on the streets in Summerville that someone had offered McNew $150 to make the confession and to put the principal blame on Matthews. Because of these rumors and other reasons, Judge Wright ordered the prisoner transferred to Atlanta.

The trial of the two men will take place at the April term of court at Summerville. Harry Kelly, a one-legged man, who was arrested in Rome a few days ago on suspicion of having been connected with the robbery, was released because of lack of evidence.

FACE A SIGHT WITH ERUPTION RESINOL CURED

Itched and Burned Until Resinol Brought Relief at Once.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 5, 1913: "I had a small pimple on the side of my face, and it kept getting larger and larger. It had spread over one cheek, and as it would spread water would come from it and every place the water would touch, another sore would form. It itched and burned and my face was a sight. I used several salves and ointments that were recommended, but none helped, until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, which relieved me at once, and after using it about two weeks, my face was entirely clear. I cannot praise Resinol enough." (Signed) Mrs. Rose Muller, 1313 Snyder Ave.

Physicians have prescribed Resinol for nineteen years and every druggist sells Resinol Soap (25c.), and Resinol Ointment (50c. and $1). Don't be deceived by the useless "substitutes" which a few unscrupulous dealers offer. For free trial, write to Dept. 6-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Guests From Detroit.

Colonel and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont Driving club in honor of Mr. George Russell, of Detroit, Mich., and his sister, Miss Russell.

The party assembled in one of the private dining rooms of the club, and the table decorations were in red carnations. The detail decorations were in that color, and the dishes were garnished in crimson.

Mrs. Lowry wore a smart toilet in dark brown cloth, the smart coat opening to show a blouse of old gold lisse and lace. Her hat of brown was trimmed in plumes. Miss Russell wore taupe-colored chiffon and lace, with smart toque in black. Mrs. John E. Murphy, who has recently returned from a delightful visit to Palm Beach, wore a deep violet-colored gown, with plumed hat in the same color. Mrs. Clark Howell wore a becoming toilet in brown velvet, her hat the same color. Mrs. Barnes' becoming costume was in black velvet, with toque to match.

Evening Bridge Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Booth entertained at bridge last night at their home in the Ponce de Leon.

The rooms were attractively decorated with quantities of jonquils. The prize for top score was a jewel case, and the consolation was a hand-painted plate. After the game, a delicious buffet supper was served.

Mrs. Booth wore a gown of white and black chiffon. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Woolford, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. French, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Amsden, Mr. and Mrs. William Riley, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Murray.

Informal Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Seabrook will give an informal dancing pary Tuesday evening at their home, on North Boulevard, in honor of Miss Carrie Ludwig, who has recently come to Atlanta to live, and for her guest, Miss Elsie Crawford, of New Jersey.

Mrs. Armstrong Entertains

Mrs. Klatte Armstrong will entertain sixteen guests at bridge Tuesday at her home in Ansley Park.

Charter Must Be Changed.

Women cannot be appointed on the municipal boards of the city of Atlanta until the charter of the city is amended, and that could not be accomplished before the next legislature.

This was the result of the discussion of the matter when brought before the meeting of council Thursday afternoon. In the meantime the request of the Federated Clubs of Atlanta that they have representation on municipal boards has brought about similar requests on the part of representative women in other cities of the state. The mayor of Savannah has declared himself willing to appoint women on the hospital and park boards, when the city charter there is amended. It is probable that the Atlanta City Federation will take steps at once to have the city charter so amended that they may be eligible to serve on the several boards in Atlanta.

For Mrs. Gallagher .

Mrs. W. C. English, Jr., entertained at bridge yesterday in compliment to Mrs. C. D. Gallagher, of Montezuma. The guests included Mrs. Gallagher, Mrs. Hal Fisher, Mrs. Leon Greer, Mrs. William Reeves, Mrs. C. Y. House, Mrs. A. J. Wilson, Mrs. A. G. Mickel, Mrs. John Evans, Miss Plummer of Maryland, Mrs. Manning, Mrs. Harry Allen, Mrs. Fred Winburn, Mrs. John Sage and Mrs. C. E. Fitzpatrick.

For Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. Alfred E. Buck entertained ten guests at a luncheon yesterday at her home on West Peachtree street for Mrs. Lee C. Scott, of Seattle, Wash.

Miss Gray's Lecture.

"Finland" will be the subject of two lectures Miss Helen Gray, writer, traveler and lecturer, will give at the Hotel Ansley March 26 and April 6 for the benefit of the Mineral Bluff Industrial school.

Miss Gray has traveled as far into Finland as has any other woman, and she has made a thorough study of the country and its history, and the men and students who have touched there.

The purpose of the lecture is to get funds for the Mineral Bluff school.

Tea Dance at Piedmont.

The regular Saturday afternoon tea dance will be given this afternoon at the Piedmont. The dances are for the benefit of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., and members of the chapter will be the chaperons.

Mrs. Brooks' Luncheon.

Mrs. R. P. Brooks, of Forsyth, entertained at a pretty luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont in compliment to Mrs. Alfriend, the new regent of the Piedmont Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Pink roses decorated the table and all details were in pink and white.

The guests were: Mrs. Alfriend, Mrs. W. T. Roberts of Fairburn, Mrs. S. W. Foster, Mrs. J. C. Harper, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. George Hope, Miss Ida Schane and Miss Rubie Ray.

AN APPEAL TO WOMEN

By One Who, From Her Past Experience, Is Capable of Giving Sound Advice.

Bud, Ky.—"I want to urge all weak women," says Mrs. Lizzie R. Barker, of this place, "to give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a fair trial, for I believe it will do for them what it has done for me.

I was a sufferer for 13 years, with such pains I could scarcely walk or stand on my feet. I had headache, dizziness and fainting spells.

After many treatments failed to help me, my husband persuaded me to give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial, and I did so. Now I feel like a new woman. I am well of all these troubles, and can do all my housework, with pleasure.

When I commenced taking Cardui, I was not able to sit up. Now I am enjoying good health and do all of my work.

I shall keep Cardui in my home all the time. There is not any medicine that equals it for women."

We, also, urge you to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles. It has helped so many thousands of women in the past half century that we feel sure it will help you, too.

Prepared from perfectly harmless, vegetable ingredients, Cardui is the remedy for you to use. It can do you nothing but good.

Try it.

JAIL DELIVERY NIPPED IN THE BUD AT DUBLIN

Dublin, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—A bold attempt of two prisoners to saw out of jail was stopped by Sheriff Flanders in the county jail here when he discovered one of the men sawing a bar to one of the windows late at night. The prisoner was a white man named Eubanks, and had the liberty of the corridor of the jail where he could reach a window. A negro prisoner under the age of death, Shed Hill, stated that he had given a white man named Welch, who had just been released from the jail on bond, $10 to get him some saws. Welch smuggled three hack saws into Hill, but as the negro was locked in a cell, he could not reach the window and made a trade with Eubanks, who was in the corridor, to saw the bars at the window and then saw the bolt to the lock of his cell.

Sheriff Flanders' discovery stopped the intended escape and brought about the arrest of Welch, who is now in jail, charged with aiding in an attempt to break jail.

Steady Increase in the Use Of Drugs Shown in Report Of State Drug Inspector

Macon, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—Follownig on the heels of the report of Dr. T. A. Cheatham, state drug inspjector, that he finds the sale of drugs throughout the state to be prolific, the report of the medical department of the state sanitarium proves interesting, though rather horrifying reading.

It shows that for the last five years there has been a steady increase in the number of drug and alcoholic cases and during the first two months of the present year the percentage has been unusually large. During January and February of 1914, one-tenth of all patients admitted to the state sanitarium were there from the use of drugs, whil 8 per cent were users of alcohol. The percentage of drug cases has increased from 1.5 in 1909 to 3.7 in 1913.

According to the report the law, which provides only for the admission of "lunatics, epileptics, idiots and demented inebriates," is being grossly ignored. In 1913, out of 1,269 patients admitted, 49 came under the heading of those "not insane."

State Drug Inspector T. A. Cheatham has declared that fifteen samples sold by Georgia druggists were shown on alalysis to contain cocaine in violation of the narcotic laws of the state.

THOMASON AND TYREE ARE FINED $200 EACH

Thomason Makes Defense But Is Convicted, and Tyree Pleads Guilty.

Two former Fulton county convict guards, Clyde Thomason and Ed Tyree, recently indicted for cruelty to prisoners, were, on Friday, tried in Judge Ben Hill's criminal division of the superior court and found guilty. Both were fined $200, with the alternative of spending twelve months in the chaingang. Thomason put up a defense. When convicted his attorneys at once moved for a new trial. Tyree pleaded guilty.

The testimony at the Thomason trial was startingly sensational. The indictment charging the former guard with cruelly beating James Branden, a convict, was read. Thomason entered a plea of not guilty. Solicitor General Dorsey then stated that he would ask the court to nol prosse the indictment against Thomason charging him with assault to commit murder upon the person of John Harris, also a convict, whom Thomson some time since shot. The court followed the suggestion of the solicitor.

During Thomason's trial, Harris, the man whom the guard shot, took the stand. His statements in answer to the questions of Thomason's attorneys, L. Z. Rosser and Ben Conyers, were given in a quick, rasping voice.

Thomason placed several witnesses upon the stand in an effort to show that Harris was "out to get him" and that it was a case of "dog-eat-dog" as one witness stated, therefore, he shot the convict when Harris advanced upon him with a heavy club.

The trial of Tyree followed quickly upon the heels of that of Thomason Tyree was charged with cruelly whipping a sick convict at the Roselyn camp. The convict, a negro, declared that he had been taken to a camp building and there whipped on his bare back. He stated that he had been whipped shortly before and that the sore spots on his back had not healed. When he placed his hands over his back for protection, the negro convict said Tyree had taken the butt end of the whipping strap and struck him on the head. The negro said that Tyree then called for several other prisoners to hold the cowering and all but dead negro and then applied twenty-five lashes to his naked back. This happened, so the negro, stated, during one day.

HIGH WINDS WILL SAVE GEORGIA'S PEACH CROP

General Opinion in Middle Georgia That Even Hard Freeze Would Not Hurt.

Macon, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—The fact that the high winds of the last few days have kept the peach buds dry will have a great effect in preventing damage should middle Georgia get another touch of freezing weather in the next few days, which has been predicted by the weather man.

The general opinion here is that even with a hard freeze and half of the buds killed, there would still be enough left to make a good crop.

E. J. Willingham said he was at his orchards today and that they are as fine as he ever saw them. Some varieties of peaches are in full bloom and others are opening.

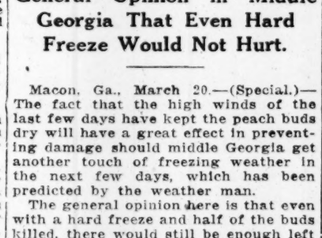

RESILIENT AUTO WHEEL PATENTED BY GEORGIAN

Monroe, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—A resilient automobile wheel, invented by Grover C. Moore, of this county, is receiving attention by automobile manufacturers over the country. The main purpose of the invention is to make practicable the use of solid rubber tires and thereby avoid all tire troubles, though it is so devised that a pneumatic tire can be used if desired. The wheel is composed of twelve spring spokes, fitted into the hubs by bolts, the tire rim being in two sections. The purpose of the springs is to absorb the shock of the solid tire, as the pneumatic tire does where it is used. Mr. Moore has obtained a patent upon his invention, and has received many offers from various firms all over the country.

CHIEF CLAIM AGENTS EFFECT ORGANIZATION

Safety of People Is the Prime Object of Body Formed in Atlanta.

The chief claim agents of the forty railroads of the southeast met Friday afternoon at the Hotel Ansley and effected the organization of the Southeastern Association of Railway Claim Agents. The prime motive of this organization is to inaugurate an educational campaign in interest of the safety of the people. There are two other such railway organizations in the country—the Pacific and the Eastern Safety associations.

The officers of the Southeastern association are: F. R. Yarbrough, Augusta, chief law agent of Georgia railroad, president; C. H. Findley, Savannah, chief claim agent of Central of Georgia railroad, vice president, and W. O. Wall, Macon, general claim agent of Macon, Dublin and Savannah railroad, secretary and treasurer.

The safety movement began in the northwest four years ago and has made a rapid sweep over the country. Its motto is "Safety First." Many of the large cities have safety organizations of their own that are now waging educational campaigns through newspaper advertising and like means.

"Ninety per cent of the people killed by trains," said Secretary Wall, "are trespassers, and are local people. Hoboes are rarely ever killed by railway accident. The safety movement is just taking firm hold in the country and is somewhat of a pioneer to the southeast. Our work now is being taken up with organizing, and we have as yet no definite lines worked out for the campaign."

The headquarters of the assbciation will be in Atlanta.

MAY CALL A MEETING OF STATE SPORTSMEN

Charles Davis, Game Commissioner, Planning Georgia Co-operative Society.

For the purpose of obtaining practical aid from the sportsmen of Georgia and for more effective enforcement of the game and fish laws of the state, Charles L. Davis, commissioner of the state department of game and fish, will probably call a meeting in Atlanta, some time in April, with the object in view of organizing the sportsmen into a sort of a co-operative league or society.

This plan has been suggested to Mr. Davis by a number of his friends and supporters of the state game laws, and at their request he has sent out the following circular letter:

Dear Sir: In my judgment the cause of game and fish protection in Georgia can be materially aided by the co-operation of the sportsmen of the state and their aid will be more practical and the results more effective through a state organization. This matter has been discussed recently by a few gentlemen interested and, at their request, I am writing to know if they may have your assistance in organizing and maintaining a state sportsmen's association.

It is desired that a meeting be held in Atlanta on a date in April for the preliminary organization of the association, when excursion railway rates may be in effect.

May we count on your attendance at such a meeting?

Yours very truly,
(Signed) CHARLES L. DAVIS.

CHARGE LINDALE MEN WITH TOBACCO THEFT

Rome, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—Ben Mangum and Roy Taft, two young Lindale men, are in Floyd county jail accused of having stolen several thousand cigarettes from the store of Brittain Bros. Co. at Lindale. They are said to have confessed, but claim that they were intoxicated at the time.

The robbery was peculiar in that only cigarettes, pipes and tobacco were taken, and none of the other goods in the store disturbed.

Money-Saving Gardens

Lots of talk the past few years about the high cost of living and that high cost is a real problem and still with us.

A good, well planted, well tended home garden, even small ones such as the back of a city lot affords, is a real money-saver, cutting down store or market bills amazingly.

Health-Saving Gardens

There's a health saving side to the home garden also. Our people as a whole eat too little vegetable food. Lack of proper amounts of vegetables in our diet means clogged-up system and a constant "below par" feeling.

Vegetables of the kind you like, fresh and crisp from the home garden, will tone you up and keep you toned up through the season, saving your health, cutting down the doctor's and druggist's bill.

Hastings' 1914 Catalogue

Will help you in planning for one of these money-saving, health-saving gardens for spring and summer; 100 pages, handsomely illustrated and full from cover to cover of garden and farm information. It's free. Either call at our store, write or telephone and we will send it promptly. Bell phones, Main 3962, Main 2568; Atlanta phone 2568.

COLD PREVENTED GAME FRIDAY

Edited By DICK JEMISON

NO GAME FRIDAY; MAY PLAY TODAY

Grounds Too Wet and Air Too Cold—Hope for Better Conditions This Afternoon.

Managers Joe Birmingham, of the Naps, and Bill Smith, of the Crackers, held a conference Friday morning and decided that it would be best to call the pastiming off for the day.

The weather was entirely too cold for either the players or the fans, and this, coupled with the wet condition of the grounds after Thursday night's rain, made the decision certain in view of prospective charley horses that might result from the cold and dampness.

If the weather man relents somewhat, there will be a game this afternoon. Dent, Price and Doscher will probably do the flinging for the Crackers. Steen and Mitchell may hurl for the Naps. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The batting orders:

SOCCER FOOTBALL

Final Game of League Scheduled for Today.

The final game of the league schedule will be played off Saturday afternoon when the local Printers will meet the Mountaineers on the latter's grounds at Stone Mountain.

There is sure to be some scrap as these two teams will battle for the cellar seat in the league and each thinks he has a chance to annex the needed points.

The Printers won the last game played with the Mountaineers and they will put forth every effort to put another over the husky boys at the mountain.

This week, the handsome cup presented by Messrs. A. G. Spalding & Bro. to the Georgia State league, arrived and the Lithonia team holds the first place on the list of winners.

The cup is a heavy silver one and is handsomely made up, and all those who have seen it express the opinion that it was worth fighting for and congratulations are flowing fast to the splendid team from Lithonia which went through the whole year without losing a game, and with a very small margin of points scored against them.

The other teams are more enthused than ever and a fast and hotly contested schedule is sure to be the result next year.

BILLIARDS

Morris Brown Wins From Dr. Poggenburg.

New York, March 20.—Morris D. Brown, of Brooklyn, and J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, of this city, played the slowest game of the National Amateur Billiard tournament here today and Brown won by 400 to 336. Although only 33 innings were played, the men consumed nearly four hours. The fact that the chance of either one of them for championship honors depended on the outcome was the reason both were so deliberate.

Brown proved the steadier. He got a promising lead with a fine run of 79 in his eighteenth inning, which followed a neatly gathered cluster of 37 by Poggenburg. Toward the finish Poggenburg's work was uncertain. Scores:

Brown, 400; average 12 4-33. High runs, 79, 56, 37.

Poggenburg, 336; average 10 6-35. High runs, 45, 37, 31.

TAFT DECLINED OFFER OF $770,000 FOR CUBS

Chicago, March 20.—Charles P. Taft, who has announced he will retain his controlling interest in the Chicago Nationals for at least a year, refused an offer of $770,000 for his holdings, according to John T. Connery, who attempted to purchase the Cubs for the Connery-Spiegel syndicate. Mr. Connery did not state the price asked by Mr. Taft for his stock.

"It was at Mr. Taft's solicitation we met him," said Connery. "Our final bid in Cincinnati was $750,000 and we had with us there a certified check for $25,000 to bind the deal.

"When he met us in Chicago Wednesday, Mr. Taft said he already had spent quite a little money in buying uniforms and sending the club south to training quarters. These expenditures amounted to more than $15,000 and for good measure we increased our offer $20,000 so that our final offer was $770,000.

"Although Mr. Taft reduced his figures a trifle, we still were far apart and there the matter ended."

First Legal Shot Of Baseball War Fired by Federals

File Injunction to Restrain Bill Killifer From Playing With Philadelphia Nationals—Reserve Test.

Grand Rapids, Mich. March 20.—The first legal shot of the baseball war of 1914 was fired here today by the Federal league in filing a petition with the United States district court for the western district of Michigan asking for an injunction to restrain William J. Killifer, Jr., formerly catcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, from playing baseball with any other than the Chicago Federals.

Killifer signed a three-year contract with the Chicago Federals, but afterward was persuaded that the reserve clause in his old contract with the Philadelphia club held him legally to Philadelphia and he joined his former team.

The suit involves the legality of the reserve clause, long regarded as one of the bulwarks of organized baseball. The suit was brought in the western Michigan district because Killifer is a resident of Paw Paw, Mich.

Terms of Contract.

The complaint which was signed by Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federal League Baseball club, told of the signing of the contract by Killifer who agreed to play for three years for the Chicago Federals for a total of $17,500, or $5,833.33 a year.

The contract, a copy of which was attached to the petition for an enjoining order, expressly stipulated, the court was informed, that Killifer agreed to devote his entire time and attention to the service of the Chicago Federals.

The court was informed that $500 was advanced to Killifer on account and was accepted by him and is still retained. Failure to report for practice in accordance with his contract was alleged against Killifer.

The bill set forth "that one of the principal positions on a baseball team is that of catcher; that on account of its importance and of the extraordinary skill, adaptability and training necessary for the expert playing of this position, it is more difficult to secure an expert catcher than any of the other players."

Value Bill Highly.

A paragraph informed the court "that the defendant is a baseball player, to wit: a catcher of unique and extraordinary skill and expertness and of such personal and intellectual character that his loss cannot be substantially compensated for by the services of some other baseball catcher."

The bill set forth that the Chicago Federals would suffer irreparable injury unless a restraining order issue, enjoining Killifer from playing with clubs other than the Chicago Federals and more particularly with the Philadelphia Nationals with whom, the complainant believed, Killifer was now in active practice in preparation for the opening of the baseball season.

The complaint closed with a prayer for the immediate issuance of a temporary injunction preventing Killifer from violating his contract with the Chicago Federals and a petition that the temporary injunction be made permanent in the final hearing of the suit.

Because of the absence of United States Judge Sessions from the city it was impossible to secure a temporary restraining order as originally planned. The prayer for this was stricken from the bill and instead, April 3 was fixed as the date for the hearing on the question of a temporary injunction.

Phillies Will Fight.

Wilmington, N. C., March 20.—When informed this afternoon that application for an injunction to restrain Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals had been filed at Grand Rapids, Charles Dooin, manager of the club, acknowledged some surprise at the action, but stated that the move had been anticipated, and his course of action had been clearly outlined by legal counsel for the club.

"We have no fear whatever of losing Killifer, and we expect Tom Seaton to return to the club before the season opens. We shall apply for an injunction restraining him from playing with the Federals in the near future. I understand he has joined the Chicago training squad at Shreveport, La."

Samuel W. Clements, attorney for the Philadelphia club, was in conference here last week with Dooin, President Baker, of the Philadelphia club, and President Tener, of the National league, when a course of action was clearly planned in anticipation of the filing of a federal injunction, although the plans were not made public.

Killifer states that he will not play with the Federals, even should their injunction be granted and finally settled in their favor. "I will retire from the game first," stated Killifer, "but I do not anticipate the necessity for this, for I don't think the injunction will ever be served on me. I will work in the game here tomorrow, and will give them a chance to serve an injunction if they want to."

MIKE FINN THREATENED WITH BLOOD POISONING

Memphis, Tenn., March 20.—(Special.) Manager Mike Finn, of the Memphis team is today confined to his room as the result of an injury he received in practice Wednesday.

Finn was essaying to umpire a game between two Turtle squads and was hit on the foot by a fast batted ball. Finn paid little attention to the injury at first, although it was painful. The nail on his big toe has about come off, and the member is black and swollen. He is unable to put his weight on his foot, and has fear of blood poison.

INJUNCTION HALTS FEDERAL MANAGER

"Doc" Gessler's Conference With Hub Perdue and Wilson Collins, of Boston, Ended by Court's Action.

Macon, Ga, March 20—(Special.)—While "Doc" Gessler, former famous Boston American outfielder and now manager of the Pittsburg Federal League club, was sitting in his room at a local hotel late this afternoon, talking to Pitcher Hub Perdue and Outfielder Wilson Collins, of the Boston National club, he was served with an injunction restraining him from approaching any Boston player under contract with a view to enticing him to the Federal league.

Gessler at first denied his identity, even to veteran Boston newspaper men, but finally laughingly admitted it. He stated that he would take the first train out of Macon for Pittsburg. If so he will leave early tomorrow morning.

The serving of the restraining order was spectacular. Perdue had been phoned by Gessler to come to his hotel that "he wanted to talk with him." Perdue pitched four innings of the game with Newark today and then left the park with Collins. Some time later an attorney representing Manager Stallings, of the Boston club, burst into the room in company with a court official and served Gessler with the order. Gessler later replied when asked if the order had "stopped" him, "well it has made me hesitate a little, all right."

Among Boston and Newark players the belief was general tonight that Gessler will be on hand tomorrow in Augusta when Newark plays Brooklyn. The injunction served here today is based on the Georgia contract labor law, which forbids any employer from interfering with employees under contract to another man.

GARDNER TO COACH THE SEWANEE NINE

Former Carlisle Star Is Appointed—Has Had Experience in Coaching Teams.

Sewanee, Tenn., March 20.—(Special.) The athletic board of control of the University of the South has just closed a contract with William J. Gardner, of Atlanta, to coach their baseball team this season.

Mr. Gardner is a Carlisle Indian of some reputation, being an all-around athlete. While at Carlisle he made his letter in football, baseball, basketball and track, and since he has left college has done much work in the coaching line, so that Sewanee is very fortunate in securing the services of such a valuable man.

If the university authorities find his work satisfactory this spring they will undoubtedly retain the Indian throughout the year, giving him the position of athletic trainer and assistant coach in football to Coach Harris Cope.

Mr. Gardner, who has been connected for the past few months with A. G. Spalding company, Atlanta, will arrive in Sewanee Monday and will take full charge of the baseball team.

NEW SUFFRAGE BILL PROPOSED IN SENATE

Measure's Enemies Lose When It Is Sent to Suffrage Committee.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—Woman suffrage came to the fore in the senate again today and a new resolution for a constitutional amendment was proposed by Senator Shafroth to take the place of that defeated yesterday. It would require states to decide the suffrage question for themselves whenever 5 per cent of the voters petitioned for it.

The first fight today developed when Mr. Shafroth asked to have the resolution sent to the suffrage committee. Senators who voted against yesterday's resolution wanted it to go to the judiciary committee, but were beaten, 37 to 25.

Senator Bristow reintroduced the Chamberlain suffrage resolution.

"I want the good women of this country to have this resolution before congress so that they may carry on their campaign," said Senator Bristow.

RIVERSIDE PLAYS YELLOW JACKETS

First College Game of the Season at Grant Field Today—Starts Promptly at 3:30 O'Clock.

The first college game of the season locally will be played this afternoon at Grant field at 3:30 o'clock.

The Georgia Tech nine will have as their first opponents the Riverside Military academy team from Gainesville, Ga.

Riverside can be counted on to give a good account of herself in this game. Coach Frank Anderson has a splendid bunch of players this season and judging from the teams he has turned out in the past, the Jackets are going to have their hands full.

Coach Heisman has not determined on his line-up for the game. He will hardly do so until just before the battle commences.

BANQUET TO BE GIVEN BOYS' HIGH CHAMPIONS

Six Members of Team to Be Entertained Tonight at Ansley.

The championship Boys' High basketball team will be entertained tonight at a banquet at the Ansley hotel. Professor Dykes and Professor Phillips of the school will give the banquet to the team as a reward for the great showing that the boys made in the local prep basketball league.

Boys' High won the pennant in the league after the season had closed with a triple tie. They defeated Marist college and Donald Fraser in sensational games.

The team was composed of Knox and Johnston, forwards; Scott, center, and Starr, Floyd and Loftis, guards. Each man has invited a member of the fair sex and the six couples are sure to have a great time.

Harry Holland Will Try For Shortstop's Berth; Leaves Senators Today

Harry Holland, former Tech third baseman and the latter part of last season with the Crackers as guardian of the hot corner, will leave Charlottesville today for Atlanta.

Holland was secured by Manager Clark Griffith, of the Washington Americans last fall, and after a thorough trial this spring, Griff has sent him back to the Crackers for a little more seasoning.

Griff decided that Harry was not a third baseman, moving him over to short, where Harry has been doing better work than he did at third.

Griff writes Bill Smith that Holland is a very much improved ball player, especially at short. Griff is keeping an option on Holland and will recall him at the end of the Southern league season.

Taking Griff's tip, Billy will pit Harry against Arthur Schwind for the shortfield berth, livening up the contesting for this berth on the locals.

Walter Johnson, George McBride and Clark Griffith are all admirers of Holland's work and it is their belief that Harry will be a great ball player with a little more experience.

Harry will probably play short in some of the exhibition games next week. It is also possible that his team mate, Kid Collier, star twirler at Tech, may come here too, for a little more seasoning.

STRIKING MINERS SUED FOR MILLION

Colorado Coal Corporation Files Big Damage Suit Against the United Mine Workers of America.

Trinidad, Colo., March 20.—Charging a combination by the United Mine Workers of America to injure the business of the coal corporation, a suit asking for damages to the amount of $1,000,000 and body judgment against President John P. White, Vice President Frank J. Hayes and a score of others was filed today in the district court of Los Animas county by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

The complaint charges that in furtherance of the alleged combination and conspiracy, the United Mine Workers of America officials "caused large quantities of guns and amnunition to be purchased for use, and which were used in terrifying the said employees of plaintiff into striking, and defendants caused inflammatory and intimidating speeches to be made to plaintiff's said employees, which speeches contained intimations and insinuations and statements that personal injury and abuse would come to those who failed to respond to said call of strike."

It is declared that only about one-half the employees of the company went on strike voluntarily.

The defendants are charged with "most violent, riotous, unlawful and felonious conduct" in directing the strike. It is charged that the strikers' tent colonies were so "constructed, guarded, policed and managed as to strike terror to the minds of those who might wish to seek employment" with the company.

It is charged also that men were restrained in the tent colonies when they desired to "return to work," and that men brought in by the company to fill the places of the strikers "were threatened and intimidated."

Comment by Union.

Denver, Colo., March 20.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America here, referring to the announced intention of the Colorado Coal companies to file suits asking damage of nearly $4,000,000 and body judgments against them, today declared it was an attempt to harass the union and was an admission of the inability of the companies to break the strike.

Horace N. Hawkins, attorney for the United Mine Workers of America, today made the following statement regarding the suit filed at Trinidad:

"This suit will give the United Mine Workers of America the opportunity to show in court that Mr. Rockefeller's company and other companies who are allied with the Colorado Fuel and Iron company constitute a gigantic trust, operating in violation of law, and engaged in oppressing the people in prices charged for coal. We welcome the litigation and will insist upon its trial."

OLD CROP MONTHS IN GOOD DEMAND

Cotton Shorts Became Nervous and Prices Were Sent Up—Spot Steady at Close.

New York, March 20.—Old crop shorts showed renewed nervousness in cotton today and demand sent prices into new high ground for the movement. Reactions followed an early advance, but sellers were far from aggressive and the market firmed up again, with the close steady at a net gain of 23 points on March and of 4 to 11 points on later months. March closed 74 points over May, while May showed a premium of about 25 points over July contracts. The report of the census bureau on ginning appeared to be about in line with average expectations and was not an important factor, although it may have caused some of the early covering.

Cables were about as due, but the local market opened firm at an advance of 15 points on March and of 5 to 9 points on other months. Stop orders were uncovered as prices made new high ground for the movement, and the general list sold about 10 to 22 points net higher shortly after the call.

Rumors that the board of managers of the New York cotton exchange had sustained the inspection bureau in its strict grading of cotton intended for contract delivery, seemed to increase the anxiety of the May short interest, while the advance was also encouraged by reports of unsettled southern weather.

After the execution of stop orders, the market became less active and prices eased several points, but there was no heavy selling and March contracts worked a point or two above the early high level on the afternoon rally. Closing prices were 4 or 5 points off from the best on the more active positions.

Week-end figures seemed to attract comparatively little attention and talk around the ring suggested that operators were chiefly interested in conjectures as to the extent of the remaining old crop short interest and the chances of bringing cotton here more freely from the south, with the advance of the planting season.

Dry Goods.

New York March 20.—Cotton goods markets were barely steady today. Some further export business has been done on drills for India and inquiries of a substantial character are in the market for African and Red sea ports. Wool markets were very firm and advances were reported here and abroad.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, March 20.—The census bureau count of the crop caused a buying wave in the cotton market today, which put the trading months 13 to 18 points over yesterday's close. At the strongest periods profit-taking from the long side held prices down. The close was at a net gain for the day of 9 to 15 points.

Only bullish traders looked for a cotton production of under 14,000,000 bales and the consequence was that not only was buying of contracts stimulated, but the spot market acquired a firm tone and rose one-eighth of a cent.

Weather conditions in the western belt were called extremely unfavorable, chiefly because of the cold weather prevailing there and private telegrams said that considerable planting would be necessary in the early sections. This increased the disposition to buy especially new crop months.

Spot cotton firm ⅛ up; middling 13 3-16; sales on the spot 3,175; to arrive 1,150; good ordinary 10⅞; strict good ordinary 11⅝; low middling 12⅜; strict low middling 12 15-16; strict middling 13⅝; good middling 12¼; strict good middling 14 3-16; receipts 3,239; stock 211,217.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, March 20.—The government's final ginning report received at the opening was just about what was expected. It showed the total, exclusive of linters, to be 13,964,981, against 13,488,539 last year. The feature of the market continues to be the struggle of the shorts to get out of the near positions. The people who are long on March are short on May, and while covering May they see to it that March is even stronger than May. March advanced 24 points today, May was up 11 and July 9. New crops advanced 4 to 5 points.

Liverpool is due 5 up on March-April and unchanged to 1 and up on other positions.

Coffee opened at a 10-point advance, but brokers below the level of yesterday's close. Profit taking caused a reaction of a few points at the close. The statistical position of this market is as bearish as ever.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, March 20.—Close observers think that the largest part of arbitrage short interest in May has been covered during the past two weeks by the advance in the market, enabling longs to supply the demand. Of course there remains a large interest in this position yet to be liquidated on both sides, but perhaps the largest interest has withdrawn. Cotton does not come here in March, the tenders are not nearly as had been expected. Lower grades have advanced relatively in the south, showing that a mistake had been made in supposing that there were enough of them to weigh heavily upon the American market.

BUREAU REPORT ON COTTON CROP

14,127,356 Equivalent 500-Pound Bales or 13,964,981 Running Bales Is the Report.

Washington, March 20.—One of the largest cotton crop ever grown, amounting to 14,127,356 equivalent 500-pound bales of lint and 639,795 equivalent 500-pound bales of linters, was produced by the farmers of the United States during 1913, the census bureau announced today in its preliminary report of cotton ginned as reported by ginners and delinters to February 28.

These figures compare with 13,703,421 equivalent 500-pound bales of lint and 609,594 bales of linters last year, and 15,692,701 bales of lint and 557,575 bales of linters in 1911.

The department of agriculture's estimate, announced December 12, placed the 1913 crop at 13,677,000 equivalent 500-pound bales.

The total value of the crop, including the value of cotton seed, is unofficially estimated roundly at more than $1,-000,000,000, compared with last year's $920,000,000, and $963,000,000 for the previous most valuable crop, that of 1910.

With this report the bureau of census departed from its previous method of reporting the cotton crop by not including the quantity of linters in the total production. Director William J. Harris announced this was done because with the installation of modern machinery closer delinting of seed had largely increased the quantity of linters and at the same time lowered the average quality of the fiber, so that now only a small part, if any, was used as a substitute for lint cotton.

The number of running bales of lint cotton, counting round as half bales, was 13,964,981, and of linter cotton, 629,019 running bales, compared with 13,488,539 running bales of lint and 602,324 running bales of linters last year, and 15,553,073 running bales of lint and 556,276 running bales of linters in 1911.

Included in the production for 1913 are 29,267 bales which ginners estimated would be turned out after the time of the March canvass.

Round bales included numbered 99,-916 compared with 81,528 last year and 101,554 in 1911.

Sea Island bales included 77,490 compared with 73,777 last year and 119,293 in 1911.

The average gross weight of bales for the crop, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, was 505.8 pounds, compared with 508.0 last year and 504.5 in 1911.

The number of ginneries operated for the crop of 1913 was 24,730, compared with 25,279 for the 1912 crop.

COTTON THE PAST WEEK; REVIEW OF THE MARKET

New York, March 20.—The feature in the cotton market during the past week has been the continued nervousness of old crop shorts, whose covering has forced May contracts up to 12.25, or 72 points above the low records established earlier in the month. This advance has been most generally attributed by local traders to a revision of opinion as to the relative values of New York and Liverpool contracts, and much of the demand is supposed to have come from straddle interests who were short of May and July in New York against purchases in the English market. About two weeks ago May here was selling 140 points under Liverpool, but since the covering movement started, the difference has steadily narrowed, and this morning amounted to about 110 points.

The strictness of the inspection bureau has led to heavy rejections of cotton shipped here with the intention of making contract deliveries, but it is rumored that the board of managers has refused to consider protests of over-strictures and the failure of the certificated stock to increase is considered chiefly responsible for the covering movement. The attention of the trade has been practically monopolized by this situation in the near position, and but little interest has been evidenced in the daily news or in the reports of the census bureau.

The supply and distribution figures for February indicated a well-sustained volume of American mill activity, while the production figures, issued today, proved practically in line with recent average views of the yield. Private cables have been received claiming a poor trade in Manchester. Liverpool spot sales, however, have continued heavy, and private advices as well as the failure of New York to draw cotton have indicated a continued steady spot situation in the south. The short interest in old crop months is supposed to have been considerably reduced, and there has been some talk of a renewed decline on that theory, but local bulls are predicting higher prices on the ground that a large short interest still remains outstanding, and that any unfavorable feature in the new crop start would increase the difficulty of covering.

WEEK'S TRADE REVIEW BY MERCANTILE AGENCY

New York, March 20.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that betterment in current distributive trade at the west and excellent advices as to winter wheat sharply contrast with a less satisfactory situation in iron and steel and uncertainty caused by state or national governmental activities, which tend to becloud the future and hamp enterprise, manufacturing as well as financial.

On the one hand the economic situation is confronted by the beneficent influence of nature, while on the other hand it is hampered by the moods of legislative forces. The railways do not see their way clear to buy rails while advances in rates are withheld and at the same time bituminous coal operators are facing uncertainty regarding wage scales, which expire April 1.

For the week: Failure 290, against 282 last year; wheat exports 4,480,101 bushels, against 3,598,104; bank clearings $3,253,456,-000, a decrease of 1 per cent from last year.

ARGENTINE CORN SCARED THE BULLS

Report That Nearly a Million Bushels Had Been Bought for the United States.

Chicago, March 20.—Argentine corn today put unmistakable pressure on all kinds of grain. Largely in consequence, future deliveries of corn here finished somewhat heavy at a decline of ⅜@½ to ½ for the day. Wheat showed a net loss of ⅛ to ½c, and oats were unchanged to ⅝@¾c down. In provisions, the outcome varied from last night's level to an advance of 5c.

It was apparent that the edge was off the corn market, at least for the time being. Notwithstanding that rain still threatened the full success of the Argentine harvest, offerings from Argentina were said to have greatly increased and there were reports that nearly a million bushels of Argentine corn had been bought in 24 hours for the United States. Simultaneously, Missouri river dealers sent word that over-night sales to feeders had suddenly fallen off, and advices from the east said cash buyers in that direction were not following the presvious day's upturn. Longs rushed the corn pit with sales to realize profits. After the ensuing break, some of the hardier speculators began to reinstate their lines and there was a good deal of covering by shorts. Rallying prices, however, brought on a renewal of the selling, and left the market in the end at almost the lowest point of the season.

Although depressed in sympathy with corn, wheat displayed comparative strength most of the day. Crop news was favorable everywhere, but was offset by export business at New York.

Oats had no independent action and gave way to the setback in other grain.

Buying on the part of packers upheld provisions. Higher prices for hogs seemed to be a sufficient reason.

STOCKS ADVANCED THROUGH THE LIST

Strength of Railroad Shares the Feature of the Market—Cause of the Advance.

New York, March 20.—An advance, which began in the eastern railroad stocks today, ultimately extended through the market, which showed material improvement at the close. Railroad shares were most conspicuous in the day's dealings, and their strength was associated with intimations from Washington that the administration favored an advance in freight rates for the eastern lines. Speculative opinion for some time has inclined to the belief that the railroads would obtain part, if not all, of the 5 per cent increase sought. Industrial stocks held back for a time, but at last joined in the upturn, although their gains as a whole were less important.

The market was slow in getting under way, chiefly on account of renewed pressure from abroad. American stocks were depressed in London, and there were free offerings here for foreign account. This selling failed to depress the market, but the greater part of the advance was delayed until the latter part of the day, after foreign liquidation had ceased.

Steel lagged behind, but in the end it made a good showing. Coppers were helped by expansion of the export movement of the metal and a reported increase in domestic consumption.

Prospects were for another good bank statement. The week's known movements of currency called for a cash gain of $3,000,000 or more. The time money rates showed an easier tendency.

In the bond market there was an irregular movement. Total sales, par value, $2,630,000. United States 2s registered advanced ½ and the 2s coupon declined 1-4 on call.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, March 20.—The condition of the United States treasury at the beginning of business today was:

Net balance in general fund, $93,490,511.

Total receipts yesterday, $2,127,808.

Total payments yesterday, $2,522,798.

The deficit this fiscal year is $25,374,660, against a surplus of $10,054,205 last year, exclusive of Panama canal and public debt transactions.

Money and Exchange.

Time loans soft, 60 days, 2¾@3; 90 days, 3; six months, 3¼@3½.

Mercantile paper, 4@4½.

Sterling exchange steady; 60 days, 4.8475; demand, 4.8665.

Commercial bills, $4.84.

Bar silver, 58.

Government bonds irregular; railroad irregular.

London Stock Market.

London, March 20.—Money was dearer and discount rates were quiet today. The stock market opened irregular and weak. The market picked up a fraction generally near the close on covering, but finished unsettled.

American securities were quiet and featureless during the forenoon. Later the list harlened on light buying and closed steady.

Bonds vs. Stocks
No. 2

Another difference between Bonds and Stocks does not solely have to do with this matter of certainty and fixity of income. There is the even more important matter of your principal.

To get back all the money you may put up as a stockholder you must take the chance of finding someone to buy your stock at what you paid for it.

Should the directors fail to pay a dividend your stock may drop overnight. Upon bonds, the company, regardless of its earnings, must pay its interest and return to you at some definite time the face value.

High-class public utility 6 per cent bonds, $100, $500 and $1,000. Cash or in monthly payments.

Coffee.

New York, March 20.—The coffee market opened steady at an advance of 7 to 10 points on covering due to some extent to smaller Jundiahy receipts. The European cables were easier, however, and freight offers were a shade lower, while today's Sao Paulo receipts were full, and the market soon turned easier under renewed liquidation. London cables reporting unfavorable financial conditions in Brazil helped the decline, but after selling two or three points net lower, prices rallied slighty on covering, with the close steady, net two points lower to five points higher. Sales, 57,750.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

More loans have been accepted by the big insurance companies and other loan people in the last thirty days than in the preceding several months.

More people are offering money to borrowers now than in the last six months.

This was the encouraging report of Walker Dunson, loan expert of the firm of Dunson & Gay, at the March meeting and luncheon of the Atlanta Real Estate board at the Ansley hotel yesterday.

H. W. Dillin, of the Dillin-Morris company, was the host at the luncheon. There was a good-sized attendance and the meeting was characterized by much enthusiasm and faith in revival of the market.

The Income Tax.

Eugene S. Kelly, vice president of the Charles P. Glover Realty company, spoke to the members of the board on the new income tax law, as it concerned land owners and agents.

He brought out the fact that under certain conditions tenants paying rent in excess of $3,000 or more per annum were obliged to withhold the income tax of the property owner, unless exempted, and pay it to the government. He further stated that corporations owning stock in other corporations, and particularly holding companies, would be doubled-taxed by the provisions of the law.

A dividend paid by one corporation to another is taxed, and that part of the profits of the other corporation accruing by virtue of the dividend so received, is also taxed.

"This," he said, "will tend to do away with the large holding companies, a very desirable effect."

Real estate agents are not concerned with paying or withholding the tax of their principals unless they are acting in a fiduciary capacity. He advises persons yith income of $3,000 or more to look into the provisions of the law, so that proper exemption certificates may be filed with withholding agents.

Shriners to Boost Atlanta.

Forrest Adair, of the Forrest & George Adair agency, and "daddy" of the movement which landed the Shriners' convention for Atlanta, addressed the realty men on the coming convention.

He declared that during this convention more people will be in Atlanta than ever gathered in any city in the world for any one specific purpose, "and," he added, "when they get here you will find that I have not exaggerated the case."

He stated that already eighty-one patrols and fifty-five brass bands, drum corps and other musical organizations, besides those in Atlanta, have made reservations for the week. The big parade on Tuesday of the convention week, he said, would reach from Alabama street to Brookwood, and that trouble will be experienced in the center of the city in so manipulating the course of the parade that it will not run over itself.

Mr. Adair predicts that the Shriners' convention will mean the widest publicity that Atlanta has ever received from any one organization. More than that, he predicts that from the Shriners Atlanta will secure many new citizens. He cited the case of Los Angeles, where the board of trade was able to secure fairly accurate figures on the number of people that were added permanently to the city's population by the convention there three years ago.

Mr. Adair also touched upon the custom of an annual raise in assessments on realty, declaring that it may shortly reach the point where it will be more burdensome than is anticipated and will work a hardship upon, rather than aid, the city.

Decatur as Residence Suburb.

Mr. Hamilton, of the Decatur Board of Trade, spoke upon Decatur as the ideal residence suburb of Atlanta.

He pointed out the rapid development that has taken place in Decatur recently as a result of the work of the board of trade and the citizens of that suburb.

He declared it to be an object of the board of trade not only to develop Decatur, but as far as possible to develop the territory which lies between Atlanta and Decatur.

Mr. Hamilton also spoke of the proposed "Granite Highway" to Stone Mountain, declaring his belief that this highway will become a country residence thoroughfare second only to Peachtree and Pace's Ferry road.

Small Acreage Sale.

The Charles P. Glover Realty company has purcahsed from the McIntyre Investment company a tract of thirty-five acres of land in Cherokee county, near Woodstock, the consideration being in the sum of $1,000.

Work on Spring Starts.

The Spring street improvement committee wishes to inform the citizens interested in making Spring street the cross-town boulevard, that the county commissioners are co-operating with the committee and now have a gang of convicts working with a new patented scraper at the unopened section between Fourteenth and Peachtree streets. They are also to grade the Eighth Ward school lot at the corner of Eighteenth and Spring streets, and when the lot is graded, the committee will ask the city finance committee to make an appropriation of $60,000 for the school.

The property owners are negotiating with the owners of one lot fronting Sixteenth street and a house and lot on the northwest corner of Spring and Sixteenth streets, which are needed to make the street 60 feet wide.

TORREON INVESTED BY GENERAL VILLA

he exclaimed jubilantly. "Never has a revolutionary army in Mexico had better men, and never have they been so thoroughly equipped. Every preparation has been made, and we can't fail."

It is no figure of speech to say that the light of battle burned in the rebel leader's eyes. They are extraordinarily wide set, so that when he looks at a visitor at close range they seem almost to cross, and their dark depths, always, glowing, seem actually to flame in moments of excitement. His subordinates rarely ever argue with him, and in such moments never. It is a danger signal—one which the Scotchman Benton is said to have failed to heed.

General Felipe Angeles, chief of the artillery corps, was named second in command to take full charge in the event of the death or incapacitation of Villa. Angeles is a member of General Carranza's cabinet, and was detached at Villa's urgent solicitation to participate in the battle. He is a veteran, big gun expert and many an artillery officer in the enemy's ranks at Torreon received his schooling from him. His loyalty to Madero's memory has endeared him to the rank and file of the troops.

"Villa's Pills" Ready.

General Aguirre Benavides was placed in command of the disposition of troops, although Angeles himself selected the position for his guns. They were trained on the hilltops, while soldiers busied themselves throwing up banks of sand around them and digging caves to store the ammunition. In the latter there is a supply of home-made shrapnel, which the soldiers refer to as "Villa's pills."

Virtually all of the rolling stock of the railroad is congested on the line bewteen Chihuahua, Jiminez, Escalon (where there is a water supply) and the front. Villa has food for a month, 2,000 rounds of cartridges to the man and his railroad service, unless cut, can maintain the water supply indefinitely

It is believed here that the federals are completely cut off from the outside world, even by wire, although the wireless stations may permit them to communicate with the national capital, 700 miles to the south. Villa professes to believe that he will capture the entire army.

Scouts for some time have reported that guns and ammunition were being shipped out of Torreon, in the direction of Saltillo and Monterey

General Villa, although accepting the reports with reserve, gave two interpretations to this, one that the federals were trying to equip a force to attack his rear, and the other that in the knowledge of certain defeat, Velasco was saving as much artillery as possible.

Foreigners Have Fled.

Torreon, although founded less than 30 years ago, has a normal population of 26,000. It has great soap, cotton, flour and iron manufactories and a great smelter receives ores from the mines. Nine months of the year the landscape is a picture of desolation, as it is now, but the annual rains bring with them color and bloom. The important adjacent cities of Gomez, Palaci and Lerdo rise or fall in a military and political sense with Torreon. Normally there is a large foreign colony, but most of these residents have fled, leaving only a few as caretakers of important property.

General Carranza and Provisional President Huerta sometime ago agreed to the establishment of a neutral zone, where foreigners would be safe from bullets, but foreigners said they would stay in the city to guard, as far as possible, the interests left in their care.

George J. Carothers, special representative of the state department, arrived today and throughout the campaign will be the guest of General Villa, whom he has known for many years. Carothers was smiling, but he let it out that he took $25,000 insurance on his life before leaving El Paso. His particular duty will be safeguarding the rights of foreigners.

TO RECRUIT RANGERS WITH SHOOTING MEN

Austin, Texas, March 20.—Reports of new disorders along the Mexican border, including the attempted kidnaping of an American citizen by five Mexicans, today caused Governor O. B. Colquitt to order the ranger force recruited with "men who can shoot."

"I have instructed Captain Hughes to look for more men suitable for the ranger service. My instructions to him are to get men who can shoot and will shoot when necessary," said Governor Colquitt tonight.

Cameron county citizens today asked the governor for protection. Several filibustering expeditions have been reported this week operating along that section of the Texas border.

Governor Colquitt would not discuss the conference of Adjutant General Henry Hutchings with the federal commander, General Guajardo, at Piedras Negras today. American Consul Block, at Piedras Negras, accompanied General Hutchings, who is investigating border conditions, and especially the Vergara incident.

Two telegrams today formed the basis of the governor's action in ordering the ranger force increased. The first reported the kidnaping of an American, Charles Bullard, by five Mexicans near Carrizo Springs. The second was the petition from Cameron county citizens.

Bullard was tied by the Mexicans and hustled to the border, according to reports made to the governor, but while the party was crossing the Rio Grande he cut the rope which held him and escaped by diving. Bullard's captors shot at him without effect several times, and then made good their escape.

Sheriff Gardner, of Dimmitt county, went in pursuit with a posse, and the rangers and United States army border patrol also began a search for the men, but they were thought to have escaped into Mexico.

The Cameron county petition declared "murder and robbery are being committed freely," and appealed for ranger protection. The killing of two men, in both instances wealthy Mexicans, was cited.

"At practically all places in the county where Mexicans of the common class gather for their amusement, whisky, beer and mescal are being sold openly without state, county or federal licenses," said the petition.

TO PERMIT DELIVERY OF ARMS TO EMBASSY

Mexico City, March 21.—Provisional President Huerta today agreed to permit the American embassy here to receive arms and ammunition consigned to it by the United States government for the protection of American citizens in the event of disturbances in the federal capital. The arms and ammunition, however, have not yet been removed from the custom house. "Little by little" is the manner in which General Huerta proposes to permit their delivery to the embassy.

3 KILLED AND 2 INJURED BY EXPLOSION OF GAS

Ardmore, Okla., March 20.—Three persons were burned to death, one probably fatally injured, and another seriously, as the result of a fire caused by a gas explosion here early today.

The dead: Mrs. Dora Murphy, 35; Corrine Murphy, 13, her daughter; Miss Mabel Cutts, 21.

Mrs. Elizabeth Finley, 40, was probably fatally burned, while Finley and three small children escaped. Finley was badly burned.

It is thought that Mrs. Murphy, her daughter, Corrine, and Miss Cutts were asphyxiated by escaping gas, as the bodies were found in their beds burned to a crisp.

1 KILLED, 20 INJURED IN TROLLEY COLLISION

Gasport, N. Y., March 20.—Glenn W. Pridgmann, of Lockport, N. Y., was killed and twenty persons were injured in a collision between two cars on the Buffalo, Lockport and Rochester trolley line at Wickwire early today. None of the passengers on the two cars escaped injury. At least two of the injured will die.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

AT THE THEATERS

Neil O'Brien Minstrels.

(At the Atlanta.)

Monday and Tuesday will be given over to minstrelsy at the Atlanta, a matinee being Tuesday. Neil O'Brien and his American minstrels will furnish the entertainment, and it is sure to be real minstrel fun. O'Brien stands at the top of the lists of funny men, and for years was the strongest man of the Dockstader crew. He has a new show in every particular this year, with a production which is about the finest ever brought out by a black-face show. He is surrounded by many singers, dancers and comedians, all of whom have reputations and a pleasing show is certain.

Ziegfeld Follies.

(At the Atlanta.)

This morning at 9 o'clock the sale of seats for the return of the famous "Ziegfeld Follies" will open at the Atlanta and every indication points to a line of purchasers which will break the record. No show has ever created the sensation in Atlanta that was created last week when the "Follies" played here. In stars and beautiful women, it outshone all past shows, and all stars are coming back. In New Orleans this week Ethel Kelley has been back in the cast, and she joins Frank Tinney, Leon Errol, Jose Collins, Nat Wills, Elizabeth Price, Stella Chattelaine and the others next Wednesday and Thursday, when the mammoth entertainment is here again. A matinee will be given Thursday.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

The week is over at the Forsyth. A splendid show has established a new attendance record for this period of the season. Every performance has drawn the capacity of the busy house matinee and night and the two performances today will attract more people than the seating capacity and the standing room space can possibly accommodate. Next week, starting with matinee on Monday afternoon and continuing all week with matinee and night performances all the week, a new bill headed by Little Chip and Mary Marble, will be the attraction. There are seven acts on the program; each a distinctive feature in modern vaudeville. There is to be an exclusive series of motion pictures of the Castles—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle—in all their newest dance specialties and five other acts that will make a show stronger than anything the Forsyth has recently offered.

Brass farthings were authorized by English law in the year 1613. They were suppressed as worthless about forty years later.

GOOD ROAD SCOUTS ARRIVE MARCH 28

Government Experts Will Be Met at Decatur by Atlanta Executive Committee of Roads Congress.

The Washington-to-Atlanta scouting party of government good roads experts, the object of whose trip is to arouse in the citizens of the counties through which they pass an interest in the upkeeping of good roads in order to have the federal good roads appropriation spent to the best advantage, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday, March 28, at 3 o'clock, in the afternoon.

This news was received in Atlanta last night in a special delivery letter to Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention bureau, from Charles P. Light, field secretary of the American road congress, which will hold its 1914 convention in Atlanta this fall.

Besides Secretary Light, who will join the party at Camden, S. C., next Tuesday, three government experts will be in the scouting party.

Will Confer With Citizens.

At towns all along the route the party will stop and confer with the citizens of the county, particularly with the county commissioners. It is the desire of the government experts to work up the greatest possible co-operation with the government in the expenditure of the good roads appropriation.

A meeting of the local executive committee of the American road congress will be called in a day or two to plan Atlanta's entertainment of the scouts.

Fred Houser has received a letter from S. J. Newcombe, of Augusta, stating that plans are being made there for a big entertainment for the visitors.

At Stone Mountain the scouting party will be met by the executive committee of the Granite Highway association, promoters of the proposed highway from Decatur to Stone Mountain, headed by Booker Scott, of Decatur. In this welcoming party will also be R. F. Freeman, DeKalb county commissioner, and R. C. W. Ramspeck, secretary of the Decatur board of trade.

Will Meet Scouts.

At Decatur the Atlanta executive committee of the American road congress, headed by W. T. Winn, will meet the scouting party in automobiles. It is expected that a large welcoming party of Atlanta automobilists and good roads boosters will go to Decatur with the executive committee so that the visitors may receive a most hearty welcome. The executive committee alone includes thirty-three members.

It is expected that the scouting party will remain in Atlanta several days.

The scouts will leave Augusta at 8:30 o'clock on the morning of March 27.

When they arrive at Thomson, at 10 o'clock, the party will divide, one division coming towards Atlanta by way of Athens, and the other coming by way of Madison. They will meet at Decatur.

Itinerary of Divisions.

The division by way of Athens will arrive as follows:

Thomson, 10 a. m., March 27; Washington, 12 m., lunch; Lexington, 2 p. m.; Crawford, 3 p. m.; Athens, 4 p. m., spending the night and leaving at 8:30 p. m. March 28, arriving at Winder, 9 a. m.; Lawrenceville, 11 a. m.; Stone Mountain, 12:30 p. m.; Decatur, 2:30 p. m.; Atlanta, 3 p. m.

The division by way of Madison will arrive as follows:

You Can't Fool the Woman Who Buys Family Supplies

WOMEN have their eyes open. They cannot be fooled with short-weights, adulterated foods, shoddy goods or the product of unknown and unreliable manufactories.

Women know the best supplies to buy for their families and they keep abreast of retailers' stocks through advertisements in The Constitution.

If the latest news from your store fails to appear in these columns regularly, women will gradually desert you for better and wider known merchants.

Your competitor knows the value of inserting his store news in The Constitution with regularity. It is time for you to begin.

Every new home established this spring by a newly married couple should first subscribe for The Constitution and form the habit of buying from its advertisers. It will be profitable to you to suggest to them this efficient plan of household economy.

GETS DAY IN JAIL FOR KISSING WOMAN ON PUBLIC STREET

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) In the opinion of Judge Davis Freeman, of the city court, a man who attempts to kiss a woman on the street, over her objection, should serve a day in jail for the offense.

He, therefore, sentenced Frank Quinley to that term when he came before him today charged with attempting to kiss Mrs. Hattie Moore, a pretty young widow, several days ago. Quinley was also charged with snatching her purse, but this charge was dismissed.

EXPULSION OF M'DERMOTT DEBATED IN COMMITTEE

The debate over including a provision of expulsion for the congressman was hot, but ended without action.

COTTON MILL MEN STRIKE AT ROME

First Attempt to Unionize Employees of Southern Cotton Mills Results in a Walkout.

Rome, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—The first attempt to unionize a southern cotton mill and the refusal of the mill management to recognize the union led to a strike today of 150 employees of the Anchor Duck mill here.

The strikers paraded through the streets with banners and held a mass meeting tonight. There were a few personal combats between the strikers and the men who remained at work, but special police and deputies patrolled the mill district and there was no general disorder.

Charles A. Miles, an organizer of the International Textile workers, sent here from Fall River, Mass., declares that as fast as the mill workers joined the union they were discharged. The management of the mill declared it will refuse to recognize the union and will conduct an open shop.

The mill is running full time, and the management says that not more than one-third of the employees are out. The strikers assert that more than half the employees are already out, and expect more to join them. It is stated that the textile workers will attempt to establish their organization in every southern mill, and that the Rome mill is the first to be experimented with.

ARMY PLANS TO ATTACK CAPITAL AND FRISCO

Joint Maneuvers by Regulars and National Guard to Occur in July.

Washington, March 20.—Plans for joint maneuvers by the United States regular army and the national guard, to include attacks upon Washington and San Francisco by invading armies, together with the establishment of numerous training camps throughout the country, were announced today by the war department. Although the department has not determined upon a definite date for the maneuvers, it was tentatively decided to begin them in the latter part of July.

Instructions went forth from the department today to the various adjutants general of the state militia to begin preparations for the event. Special attention was called to the desire of the department that the encampments and maneuvers be conducted with a view to obtaining increased efficiency and that consequently officers were expected to eliminate all spectacular exhibitions of troops.

The attack against Washington will be participated in by troops of the Seventh and Eighth divisions of the eastern department, which will concentrate at Baltimore. The attacking forces the department announced, will be known as the "red division." A similar number of troops, designated as the "blue division," will be concentrated in the vicinity of the national capital as the defense army.

TRAGEDY NARROWLY AVERTED IN MOVIE HOUSE AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) Over 100 persons were thrown in a panic at the Lyric theater this afternoon when the operator's room caught fire, filling the theater with smoke.

Mrs. N. P. Fleicher, wife of the manager, threw the front exit curtains back and called to those near the back to leave the theater at once. Just as she got out of the theater, C. H. Gardner, the operator, who was caught in the small room, used for the machine, fell from a window, striking her on the shoulder. Gardner's hair, eyebrows and eyelashes were all singed by the flames.

After the first moment of alarm passed every one in the theater left in perfect order.

Young ladies in the place screamed when the flames first broke out, adding to the excitement.

The Lyric, located in a five-story concrete building, is a moving picture house. The damage is estimated at $500.

NO $50,000 FUND FOR CONVICT-MADE GOODS

Senate Committee Fails to Find Evidence of Big Lobby Sum.

Washington, March 20.—"There is no evidence here of any $50,000 fund," said Senator Overman, chairman of the senate lobby committee, today at the conclusion of the committee's investigation of reports that such a sum was being used in Washington by representatives of prison labor cointractors to defeat the pending Hughes bill to restrict marketing of convict-made goods. The chairman's remark, which apparently closed this latest phase of the committee's inquiries, was addressed to Edward Boyle, a Chicago attorney, and formerly treasurer of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, who has opposed so-called anti-convict labor legislation for years as legal representative of a group of manufacturers having prison labor contracts.

Mr. Boyle told the committee that he had been done an injustice by the intimations as to lobbying, and asked that a full investigation be made. Senator Overman said he was willing to call any witnesses Boyle might suggest, but that the matter seemed closed.

CONTAGION SWEEPS NEGRO ORPHANAGE

closed an evident attempt to keep an outward semblance of order. The kitchen has recently been scrubbed. The dormatory for the younger girls upstairs showed distinct traces of care, although the bedding on the eight single beds in the room was slate-colored—whether from wear or dirt could not be seen. The little girls in this room were being cared for by a girl of about 14 years, dressed in a nameless garment the color of an old saddle.

In a room at the end of a long hall, reached by a cold and draughty hall, five single beds contained sick babies. One of these babies had whooping cough. The infant lay on its side, seized with a violent fit of coughing.

What Ails This Child?

In another cot, too ill to even notice the presence of a white stranger, lay a tiny little babe, so swollen in features as to be hardly recognizable as a human being. It was explained that no "one knew what ailed the child."

In a tiny room opening into the "sick room" was an old cradle. Inside of a bundle of rags lay a month's old black baby—no larger than a china doll. The little thing was wriggling and twisting in its poor enough bed. When questioned, the matron said that this was the child that had been pointed out as "not being fed enough." "But it has improved in the last week," was the added comment.

Behind a stove sat an old "mammy." Her pipe lay on the mantel. "She smokes," said the matron, "to keep down the germs."

On the mantel-piece were the three medicine bottles—for different complaints left by the doctors. These, so it was explained, "were all the treatment the doctors had prescribed."

Three Go to Grave.

Out of that same room during the present week, three little forms had been bundled into pine boxes and put to sleep under the sod at the West View pauper field.

"It's all we can do," said the matron. "I've been up every night this week until 1 o'clock when the old mammy relieves me. I have done my best. It is true that the best is none too good. We need help but I agree that we need better and more centrally-located hospital facilities in dealing with such questions as face us right here."

Late Friday, Dr. Hall and Dr. Butler took sputum and mucous samples from the throats of the little black babies at the home for culture. These will decide whether or not the diagnosis of diphtheria is right.

Until last week, none of the forty-seven children kept at the home had been isolated. The first of the pneumonia cases suddenly broke out and the doctors ordered the children put off to themselves.

Sick and Well in Same Room.

At the present time, in both the girl and boy dormitories, children in all stages of the whooping cough are sleeping in the same room and in cases, in the same bed, with children who have as yet not been inoculated. Children who take care of the babies have free access to the sick rooms, passing in and out, emptying pails and such work, carrying germs in their clothing from the sick room to the dormitories and dining room.

"All of which," said one of Atlanta's best known physicians last night, "proves just the need of the project that is now being agitated—the rebuilding of Grady hospital on such lines so that it can cope with an outbreak of disease such as has been described. It is true that Grady cannot handle contagious diseases now. In fact, we had to refuse to take care of these very children. We dared not subject our patients at the city hospital to further disease. Our need for a proper place to care for our ever-increasing population in time of sickness has seldom been so clearly pointed out as the instances which I have just reviewed."

Would Indorse Bond Issue.

Mayor Woodward, on Friday, declared that while he considered the Atlanta plaza project as one of the city's foremost problems just now, he would heartily indorse a bond issue which carried with it both the plaza plan and the $750,000 needed for the rebuilding of Grady hospital.

A meeting of the ways and means committee of the Grady will be held within the fortnight at which time some proposition will be worked out looking toward approaching the people with a definite plan to carry out the work of making Grady hospital the Johns Hopkins of the south.

ROBERT LANSING NAMED TO SUCCEED MOORE

Will Be Counsellor of State Department—Cone Johnson to Be Solicitor.

Washington, March 20.—President Wilson today nominated Robert Lansing, of Watertown, N. Y., to be counselor for the department of state, succeeding John Bassett Moore, and Cone Johnson, of Texas, to be solicitor for the department, succeeding Joseph W. Folk.

Mr. Lansing is an associate editor of the American Journal of International Law and the author of several works on international subjects. He will succeed John Bassett Moore. He is 50 years old, was associate counsel for the United States in the Behring sea arbitration, 1892-93; counsel for the United States in the Behring sea claims commission, 1896-97; solicitor for the United States on the Alaskan boundary tribunal, 1903; counsel in the arbitration, at The Hague in 1909, of the north Atlantic coast fisheries case. His home is in Watertown, N. Y.

Mr. Johnson, who will succeed Joseph W. Folk as solicitor, is about 49 years old, and, according to the statement issued from the white house today, is "one of the most brilliant lawyers in Texas." He was once a candidate for the United States senate, but retired from the contest on account of ill health. The white house described him as "one of the leading factors in progressive democracy of Texas."

With the naming of a new counsellor and a new solicitor, all the vacancies in the state department will have been filled, a new third assistant secretary of state, William Phillips, having recently been nominated.

Mr. Lansing is a son-in-law of former Secretary John W. Foster, of the state department, a warm personal friend of long standing of John Bassett Moore, whom he succeeds, and now is the agent for the United States on the British-American pecuniary claims commission, now in session here.

Secretary Bryan said that he knew both men personally, and considered them eminently fitted for their positions. Both are democrats. Mr. Johnson was a Wilson delegate to the Baltimore convention. Mr. Lansing has not been active in politics.

Palmetto, Ga., March 20.—(Special.) A good many articles, such as brass candlesticks, vases, jardinieres and clothing, have been recovered by Chief of Police Jenkins since the arrest of the new "Jack, the Ripper."

He was arrested in Palmetto, Ga., Wednesday morning by Chief Jenkins, of this place, while selling art squares, rugs, clothing and various other articles to the colored population of this city.

Chief Jenkins arrested him on the charge of selling goods without a license, and after a few questions had been asked him, Chief Jenkins called Chief Beavers and asked him to send some one down here to identify the articles, such as art squares, rugs, etc., thought to have been stolen from the Girls' High school of Atlanta.
